HOUSE SENDS NEW TAX BILL TO SENATE

PENSION PLAN MEMBERS BOO REP. HOFFMAN

MEETING ADJOURNED AS RESULT OF JEERS

Battle Creek, Mich., April 29 (AP)—A barrage of jeers, hisses and hostile comment from elderly spectators at the congressional inquiry into the Townsend organization in this stronghold of the old age pension plan, forced an adjournment today until "you people have cooled off some."

Rep. Clare Hoffman (R-Mich), conducting the investigation, was booed from the moment he walked into the crowded room by Townsend club members from the district which was the first to elect a congressman on a Townsend platform.

Adjourns Meeting

The second of eight witnesses summoned to the turbulent hearing was being questioned when the jeers of the spectators at Hoffman's questions and their cheers for the answers of the witness, led the investigator to announce:

"I gness we'll have to give it up for today. Maybe by tomorrow the enthusiasm of you people will have cooled off some."

At one point early in the hearing Hoffman suspended questioning as an elderly spectator near the platform began chanting "rot, rot, rot."

Hoffman sought to establish the amount Townsend supporters gave to Rep. Verner W. Main's campaign last year and whether merchants were coerced into giving the clubs two per cent of the value of their members' purchasers.

Mrs. Pearl Plough, secretary of the Kalamazoo Townsend club, testified that about 100 Kalamazoo merchants had agreed to the patronage plan, but that contributions from this source had totaled only $28.

The booing reached a peak when Hoffman asked Mr. Plough:

"Don't your lecturers contend that daughters of the aged poor will be driven into immorality unless the Townsend plan becomes effective?"

"Certainly not," she said.

Floyd R. Moody, area manager for the Townsend clubs in 37 Michigan counties, was being questioned when the audience got out of hand. He said he was paid $29 a week and that he had been an organizer for the Ku Klux Klan at one time.

"Do you know that if the McGroarty bill was passed, it would provide only $33 a month in pensions?" Hoffman asked.

Moody's reply was lost in the loud cheers which greeted mention of the measure, and Hoffman adjourned the hearing.

His action followed by only a few minutes the abandonment of a "rump" hearing at Penfield township hall, five miles from the city, where F. Manley Goldsberry, Michigan organizer for the Townsend old age pension organization; George E. Gullen, Detroit attorney active in the movement and Moody opened their own investigation.

Italians Cautious In Drive to Addis Ababa

Rome, April 29 (AP)—An Italian motorized column turned due west today for a final push on Addis Ababa.

The daily communique from Marshal Pietro Badoglio, commander-in-chief of the African armies, announced the occupation of Macfud, about 170 kilometers (about 106 miles) from Dessye.

Unofficial reports had the column reaching Koro Gassa, which is the point where the road from Dessye turns sharply west for a straight run to the capital. Natives were described as friendly.

Heavy tropical rains, meanwhile, slowed down the drive of the southern army against Sasa Baneh, where an Ethiopian army is standing to preventing capture of the important city of Harar. Patrols were active, however.

In its advance on the capital the northern army is exercising every precaution against falling into a trap. Scouting planes are engaged in almost constant reconnaissance flights to prevent the main column from falling into an ambush, and an advance infantry patrol also affords a safeguard.

With the fall of Addis Ababa apparently in sight, heavy shipments of workmen to Africa continue, indicating Premier Mussolini intends to continue large scale work even after peace. The S. S. Umbria sailed today from Naples with 2,090 workmen.

Girl's Condition Considered Serious

Knoxville, Tenn., April 29 (AP)—Gravely concerned over the condition of 16-year-old Pauline Lane, physicians said tonight they hoped she would improve enough within the next six days to permit a third operation for removal of a cigarette lighter top from her left lung.

Pauline, breathing almost entirely with her right lung, lay listlessly on her hospital bed tonight, unaware that physicians had failed yesterday in an attempt to remove the metal object with special forceps sent here here from Philadelphia.

The girl swallowed the inch-long metal cap last Friday.

SHADY BROKERS 'ON RUN,' CLAIM

Undesirable Salesmen Quitting, Federal Men Report

Detroit, April 29 (AP)—Federal investigators claimed to have undesirable stock salesmen "on the run" tonight, reporting that 50 of them had quit their jobs or been discharged since an inquiry by the securities exchange commission started here April 6.

John T. Callahan, assistant general SEC counsel, pictured conditions in Detroit as "so bad that we could continue investigating here for more than six months or maybe a year."

He was drafting the first of a series of injunction petitions to be filed in federal court against certain brokerage houses, but added:

"It will take more than injunctions and indictments to clean up the securities business in Detroit."

Fitzgerald Satisfied

Taking notice of the SEC inquiry, state officials planned two investigations of the Michigan corporation and securities commission, a hearing starting Thursday at Lansing before the legislative council and possibly a bar association inquiry.

Governor Fitzgerald, who recommended the bar inquiry, announced he was "not the least bit exercised" about activities of the commission or Mrs. Alice E. Alexander, its sole member.

"As far as I am concerned there is nothing wrong with the commission," the governor said.

Speaker George A. Schroeder of the house of representatives said Mrs. Alexander and state investigators would be called upon to appear at the legislative council hearing. Callahan declined to appear or let his agents testify until the SEC investigations is completed.

The council wants to know, Schroeder said, why the commission issued licenses to certain stock salesmen "without a proper investigation" and also seeks information on how to tighten present state securities regulations.

Schroeder had asked Callahan to permit Carl A. Olson, SEC investigator, to testify regarding the Norman Berry case, but Callahan decided against it. Berry, former security company president, awaits trial on charges of defrauding Michigan investors of approximately $100,000.

At Big Rapids, Mich., today, two Detroit security salesmen, J. C. Hunt and Arthur Morningstar, each paid a fine of $250 and costs of $385 after being convicted on conspiracy and false pretense charges in connection with stock deals.

On order of the court, they made restitution to Miss Fannie Whitney, Mrs. W. A. Whitney, her mother, and Mrs. Mae Darling, who had listed amounts totaling $12,500 in two suits against both men.

Lindberghs Unable To Secure Privacy

London, April 29 (AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, who suddenly left France today after failing to secure privacy from autograph seekers, landed at Folkestone tonight.

They drove away in their automobile for an unannounced destination, believed to be their temporary home, Long Barn, at Weald, Kent.

(The couple had been touring France for six days by automobile, spending most of their time in small villages. They were not recognized until today in a seaside resort near Boulogne. After the flier and his wife went for a stroll on the beach a crowd followed them back to the hotel begging autographs so they hurriedly packed and left.)

POLICE STOP BRIDGE GAMES

2 Prominent Women Are Arrested, Accused of Gambling

New York, April 29. (AP)—In a courtroom crowded with anxious bridge enthusiasts, two prominent women players were arraigned today on a charge of violating the gambling laws in connection with the operation of a duplicate bridge tournament.

The anxiety of the spectators was traced to a fear that the police department might be contemplating a wide-scale offensive against the numerous bridge clubs in the city.

Discussing yesterday's raid on a midtown studio, which led to today's court hearing, Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine said:

"That was nothing more than a gambling house. You can gamble with bridge just as you can with poker, black jack or fan tan. Any club that violates the law is subject to police action."

Plead Not Guilty

The two women taken in the raid were Miss Mildred Lovejoy, 34, who lives in the studio apartment with her mother, and Mrs. Adelaide Neuwirt, 35. Both have a following as bridge teachers and tournament players.

After pleading not guilty they were paroled for trial in special sessions by Magistrate Anthony F. Burke.

A few hours after the bridge club raid, members of the police gambling squad visited a charity ball in a midtown hotel and a poker game in an uptown pent house. Nine men were arrested at the charity ball, and ten women and six men at the pent house. All but one woman were discharged in the latter case.

Commenting outside of court on the case, Oswald Jacoby, a member of the four aces championship team, remarked:

"Duplicate bridge might be considered a form of insanity by non-bridge players and policemen, but it isn't gambling by any stretch of the imagination."

Five Ships Pass Through Soo Canal

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 29. (AP)—The Cleveland Cliffs steamer Pontiac led five ships through the St. Mary's Falls canal this afternoon, opening navigation in the upper lakes 13 days later than last year.

Following the Pontiac were the Ishpeming and the J. H. Sheadle, of the same company, and the Algocen and Algosteel, of the Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., A. C. R. fleet. Both of the Canadian ships put in at the Canadian steel plant with coal.

The other three, bound for the head of the lake, will remain at the Sault overnight and then will attempt to force a passage through the Whitefish Bay ice in the morning. Boatswain W. Kincaide, Whitefish Point coast guard commander, said the ice was soft enough to permit navigation.

The upbound fleet encountered ice and fog in the lower St. Mary's river, but had little trouble after the heavy fog lifted this morning.

INDUSTRY ASKS LESS SPENDING

Governmental Extravagance Assailed by Business Men

Washington, April 29 (AP)—Assembled members of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States today heard sharp and repeated assertions that decreased federal spending, making possible a reduction in taxes, was the best method of meeting President Roosevelt's suggestion that business expand its payrolls.

Speakers before the chamber's annual convention aimed shaft after shaft at the administration's $803,000,000 tax bill which swept through the house even as they spoke.

The chamber's sessions coincided also with the issuance of a statement by the American Federation of Labor, declaring that "little or no progress in re-employment" has been made this year, and that "business men' must act to cure this situation.

12,184,000 Jobless

Gains in employment have not kept pace with gains in business, the federation said, adding that "more than 1,000,000 possible jobs have been eliminated by lengthening work hours since the termination of NRA."

Asserting that the average work week has "increased since January," it added that federation estimates showed 12,184,000 still were without normal work in industry in March.

Defending the efforts of business to provide jobs, William L. Sweet, treasurer of the Rumford, R. I., chemical works, told a round table conference on industrial relations that American corporations had paid out $20,000,000,000 since 1920 in "providing unnecessary work and wages beyond the amounts warranted by the current volume of business."

Capital resources, he said, had been depleted $9,000,000,000 by voluntary maintenance of a surplus working force, adding that this was a denial of charges by some that employers were "ruthless exploiters of labor."

Attacking the new revenue measure passed by the house today, Fred H. Clausen, president of the Van Brunt Manufacturing company, of Horicon, Wis., said:

"The answer to the challenge of the administration to restore employment to idle men lies in the hands of the government itself.

"We ask that the federal taxing power be returned to its proper function and be limited to the raising of the revenues required for the economical administration of government.

"As business men we have been open to the charge of seeking to dictate how to run the treasury and how to let the people starve. I enter no defense except the fact of millions in wages paid for work not required.

"We are always confronted with the query, 'What substitute tax proposal have you to offer?' Our answer has been that we have no plan to offer until congress demonstrates the purpose to curtail substantially the expenditure of national government."

Silas Strawn, Chicago attorney and new deal opponent, said:

'Business men would have more sympathy with laws designated to regulate their every activity were they proposed by statesmen who had ever demonstrated their ability to successfully do business on their own accounts."

GROUP SEEKS CIVIL SERVICE FOR MICHIGAN

ORGANIZATION WILL DRIVE AGAINST SPOILS PLAN

Lansing, April 29 (AP)—Lay groups joined with political leaders today to wipe the spoils system out of Michigan government.

Leaders organized the Michigan Merit System association to urge the adoption of civil service in all branches of state government and demand that legislators make it a reality in the 1937 legislature.

Governor Fitzgerald and former Governor William A. Comstock attended the organization meeting to commend the organizers of the new association and declare that efficient government and the evils of patronage cannot exist in the same administration.

Osborn Is President

The association chose George A. Osborn, editor of the Sault Ste. Marie News and son of former Governor Chase S. Osborn, as president.

Other officers named are: First vice president, Mrs. P. W. Jones, of Grand Rapids, president of the Women Voters League of Michigan; second vice president, Arno R. Schorer, of Kalamazoo; treasurer, John W. Miner, of Jackson; secretary, William P. Lovett, of Detroit.

An organization committee, which will meet at the Michigan union in Ann Arbor Saturday to choose a state committee of 50 members and an executive committee of 15, was appointed by Osborn.

It consists of G. I. Nippress, Saginaw educator, chairman; Dr. D. C. Shilling, of Western State Teachers college; D. A. Van Buskirk, of Hastings, president of the Michigan Educational association, and Mrs. Harry E. Applegate, of Lansing.

"On the basis of my own experience as governor, I recognize the necessity for a civil service system," declared Comstock. "I want people to know that I am for it. We've got to cut the cost of government somewhere, and there is the place to begin."

Governor Fitzgerald declared the issue of civil service is neither Republican or Democratic. He described the rush of job seekers which flooded his office during the first six months of his administration and said he was "absolutely ashamed of it."

Governor Fitzgerald promised a bill, prepared by the civil service study commission of which Dr. James K. Pollock, of the Universit yof Michigan, is chairman, will be ready for submission to the next legislature.

Present Plan Ruinous

"I know it will pass the next legislature whether or not I am governor," he said. "There won't any legislator dare to vote against it."

Robert L. Johnson, former relief administrator for Pennsylvania and now president and general manager of a magazine (Time) declared the present system of distributing patronage is ruinous to state government. He represented the National Civil Service Reform League at the organization meeting.

"Unless we defeat the spoils system and the political racketeers," he insisted, "these modern highwaymen now in control of so many branches of government will strangle the nation."

Johnson declared the civil service movement in Michigan has attracted nationwide attention. He urged the association to initiate an educational campaign to arouse public sentiment in its behalf.

L. C. Smith, another representative of the national organization, urged a $25,000 campaign chest to support the campaign. He declared it would be needed in a fight to overcome opposition to civil service.

The association adopted a resolution providing for the educational campaign designed to inform voters on the issue. It approved a second which opened its membership to voters from all political parties.

Oran Pape, Former Grid Star, Wounded

Muscatine, Ia., April 29. (AP)—Oran H. Pape, a state highway patrolman and former University of Iowa football star, was wounded critically late today by an unidentified gunman whom the officer shot fatally in a struggle at close quarters.

At a Muscatine hospital, Pape said the man drew up beside his car on a nearby highway, flourished a gun and ordered him into his automobile. The two then came to grips.

Labor Strike At Gladstone Comes To End

The strike at the Northwestern Cooperage company plant at Gladstone was terminated yesterday and full operations will be resumed by Monday morning. Most of the men will return to work this morning but some departments are dependent on others and some delay will result before the plant is working again at capacity.

Robert L. Mythen, federal conciliator of Indianapolis who came here a few days ago, said last night that both company officials and strikers were satisfied with the agreement. He said that no wage dispute was involved and that the disagreement between company officials and workers was centered about relations between the company-owned Buckeye store and workers. He said seniority rights of some of the workers was another point of argument which was amicably settled.

Strike leaders last night indicated they were satisfied with the new agreement which bettered conditions against which they were protesting. E. A. Radford, president of the Chamber of Labor with whom the Buckeye Union is affiliated, said that the settlement yesterday called for continuing the present wage contract until expiration July 1 with the understanding that contract negotiations at that time would be made with the assistance of a federal conciliator.

Officials of the Northwestern Cooperage company could not be contacted last night for a statement on the settlement.

Beer Dispensers Who Are Renewing Licenses Get Extension

Lansing, April 29 (AP)—The state liquor control commission granted ten days of grave today to beer dispensers who are renewing licenses that normally would expire at midnight tomorrow.

Chairman John S. McDonald emphasized, however, that there will be no extension for dispensers who are not renewing their licenses. They must cease beer sales at midnight tomorrow or face prosecution, he warned.

McDonald explained that the deadline for 1935 licenses was extended to May 10 only because his staff found it impossible to handle the relicensing before the statutory deadline arrived May 1.

The chairman said an augmented staff has worked day and night but still could not keep abreast of the work entailed in relicensing approximately 1,000 establishments.

"It obviously would be unfair to penalize these operators for something that is no fault of their," he said.

McDonald said most of the delay was due to the new and more rigid system of inspection which required a longer time than he had anticipated.

The chairman added that if "I have my way" no new licenses will be issued in the ensuing fiscal year. He said he would not be adament in this stand if he learned there was an actual need for more than the 14,000. Establishments he anticipates will remain in business. There now are more than 21,000.

State College Has Rally For Peace

East Lansing, April 29 (AP)—The student body of Michigan State college joined today in fostering a peace rally, in marked contrast to last year's disorders when the students ducked four peace demonstrators in the Red Cedar river.

The student council and prominent campus organizations sponsored a mass meeting tonight at which Robert Morss Lovett, Chicago educator and lecturer, pleaded for a lasting world peace.

David Cleary, former editor of the State News, student newspaper, and John Brattin, a student, spoke along similar lines.

Three students and an Ann Arbor clergyman who attempted a year ago to conduct a peace rally on the campus were ducked in the Red Cedar river by a crowd of jeering students.

TWO SAVED BY COAST GUARD

Munising Fishermen on Lake Adrift Since Tuesday Morning

Munising, Mich., April 29—Ed Martin, local fisherman, was picked up by the United States coast guard of Sand Point station at 11 o'clock this morning after drifting in his boat since Tuesday morning on the bay.

Martin went out on the lake Tuesday morning with a companion, Charles Gerew, and engine trouble developed, stopping them from returning to shore. An anchor was used but the line became chased and the boat began to drift.

During the course of the day, Martin fell overboard and, as a result, after he was rescued by the coast guard, he was taken to a local hospital in a serious condition suffering from exposure. When he fell overboard, Martin was jammed between the boat and the ice but managed, with the aid of his companion, to get back into the boat.

Urges Greater Use Of Schoolhouses

Benton Harbor, Mich., April 29 (AP)—Col. Ernest Coulter, of New York, founder of the "Big Brother" movement, told the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers tonight that schoolhouses should be open at night, for recreation and instruction.

Col. Coulter, for 20 years general manager of the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to children, spoke at the first general session on "child protection—a vital necessity."

Individual friendships, and help at critical times, he said, will help solve juvenile delinquency. He criticized psychiatry as "a dangerous fad if overdone," and said that some motion pictures cause children to turn to crime.

A revival of religious belief among children, he declared, is vitally needed today.

Five hundred delegates had registered for the convention this evening.

Bullet Proof Glass Frightens Bandits

Holcomb, Ill., April 29 (AP)—Two men, in an unsuccessful attempt to hold up the Holcomb National Bank today, poured a hail of machine gun slugs against the bullet proof glass surrounding the cashier's cage and then fled without loot.

Shouting "this is a stickup," the two opened fire, then fled when the inch and one-quarter thick glass stood up under the barrage.

Employes working behind the glass escaped injury.

Mrs. Anna Sage Is Deported To Europe

New York, April 29 (AP)—Mrs. Anna Sage, the "woman in red" in the Dillinger case, was deported to her native Rumania today.

On board the President Harding, the 44-year-old brunette who decoyed John Dillinger to his death said she had no regrets for anything that had happened.

She told questioners that she hoped to return to America some day because "I love this country."

LEADERS SAY SCHEME WILL BE APPROVED

SEVERAL EFFORTS FOR CHANGES LIKELY

BY NATHAN ROBERTSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, April 29 (AP)—Senate majority leaders declared themselves ready tonight to speed consideration of the administration's $803,000,000 tax bill which swept through the house this afternoon by the one-sided vote of 267 to 93.

Some trouble signals nevertheless loomed ahead. Two drives were in formation, one led by a Democrat and another by a Progressive, to revise the plan through a sharp boost in income taxes. Republicans have been summoned to outline a concerted attack. It was generally conceded the senate could not even approach the almost record shattering speed with which the bill was handled on the house floor.

Hearings Planned

Despite this, administration chieftains contended both publicly and privately that the president's program for a drastic revision of the entire corporation tax structure would be written on the statute books without fundamental change.

Public hearings on the house bill will begin tomorrow before the senate finance committee, with Secretary Morgenthau the opening witness. It will be his first congressional appearance on the disputed measure.

The treasury secretary will be followed by spokesmen for industry, including officials of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Their testimony was foreshadowed today by a new barrage of criticism laid down in speeches at the chamber's annual convention.

The final and overwhelming house approval of the measure, with the voting closely following party lines, was given quietly despite the background of hot controversy which had marked its consideration since it was proposed by President Roosevelt almost two months ago.

Four Republicans voted with the Democrats in approving the bill. They were Representatives Burdick and Lemke, of North Dakota; Marcantonio, of New York, and Steafan, of Nebraska.

Eleven Democrats voted against the measure on final passage. They were Representatives Corning, of New York; Greenway, of Arizona; Kennedy, of New York; Kenney, of New Jersey; Kleberg, of Texas; Lamneck, of Ohio; Lea, of California; Lanham, of Texas; Pettengill, of Indiana; Peyser, of New York, and Sutphin, of New Jersey.

The final vote came immediately after the house met at noon, resulting in sending the bill to the senate a day and a half ahead of the original schedule. The vote was a formality, as the shaping of the measure was completed yesterday.

In the senate finance committee, Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis.) has prepared amendments to raise individual income taxes. Senator King (D-Utah) was drafting a substitute for the administration plan along

In the Headlines From Washington

(By The Associated Press)

The house passed, by a vote of 267 to 93, the administration's $803,000,000 tax bill and sent it to the senate where committee hearings begin Thursday.

Speakers told the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, in annual session, that less federal taxation would make it easier for industry to meet President Roosevelt's proposal that business provide more jobs.

Officials of the federal communications commission disclosed they had asked congress for $400,000 more to continue their study of the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

Secretary Roper launched a tri-department investigation of sailor's complaints about conditions aboard ships which they contended affected the safety of life at sea.

Admiral William H. Standley acting secretary of the navy, said that Great Britain's plan to build two new battleships justified construction by the United States of two similar ships.

The house approved creation of a committee to study possible consolidation of government agencies.

The senate joined the Robinson and the Borah-Van Nuys designed to curb price discrimination by retail firms, including chain stores, and prepared to send the consolidated measure to the house on Thursday.

L'ANSE INDIANS WILL GET HELP

Resettlement Project Is Reported To Be Progressing

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty
Washington Correspondent

Washington — Congressman Frank E. Hook, of Ironwood, in a conference with Resettlement Administrator Rexford Guy Tugwell, today reports that the L'Anse Indian project is steadily progressing.

In an attempt to provide a livelihood for the many destitute Indians, living in Baraga county, the Rural Resettlement is acquiring 4,000 acres of land at an estimated cost of $16,125, or about an average of $4 an acre.

All the property is now under option and, after the land titles are cleared through the Department of Justice, the rehabilitation program will begin. Even before all the titles are established it is possible the rehabilitation work can begin if permits from owners can be obtained. Some 80 acres have already been purchased.

The tract of upper Michigan land is a non-productive forest area on which many Indians live in extreme poverty, and the aim of the government is to develop it with an extensive program of reforestation which would provide employment for the Indians.

Mr. Hook says that the government hopes to create a constant source of lumber with a reforestation program, and a large portion of the tract is to be made into garden plots on which the Indians will work under the director of the reservation. Another purpose of acquiring this land is to avoid a checkerboard condition so that the government holdings will be consolidated in one tract of land.

Total Of 26 Apply For Place In CMTC

Applications have been filed by 26 Delta county youths who wish to enlist in the CMTC for 1936, according to word received from headquarters for the Michigan reserve district. The county has a quota of 20.

A total of 1341 Michigan youths between the ages of 17 and 29 have already applied for enrollment in the Citizens' Military Training camps which are to be held from July 2 to 31, it was announced in the Detroit federal building by Major Wharton G. Ingram, regular army officer in charge of Michigan enrollments.

Major Ingram stated that camps will be conducted at Camp Custer, 5 miles west of Battle Creek and at Fort Brady, Sault Ste. Marie. A few boys will be sent to Camp McCoy, Sparta, Wis., for field artillery training.

lines similar to LaFollette's program.

More Yield Desired

Democratic chieftains were known to be counting, however, upon the reluctance of most of their party colleagues to stir up a row in a campaign year and were hoping for almost solid support on their side of the chamber.

The house bill way be broadened somewhat by the senate, however, in an effort to raise more revenue. It falls short of the president's request. In the senate hearings tomorrow, the committee will consider not only the house bill, but the chief executive's recommendations for new processing taxes spread broader and thinner than the old.

The house bill is estimated to yield $620,000,000 of permanent annual revenue to offset the cost of the new farm program and pre-payment of the soldiers' bonus.

This would come from completely revising the corporation tax structure; dropping the present corporate tax from 12½ to 15 per cent on net income, and substituting a graduated tax based upon the percentage of income undistributed as dividends.

This tax would range up to 29½ per cent on the net income of corporations making $10,000 a year or less, and up to 42½ per cent on larger earnings.

Corporations distributing all income in dividends would have to pay no tax after the first year, but the government would get its revenue from the income taxes of stockholders. Dividends would be subject to the normal tax of four per cent for the first time.

CITY MANAGER PLAN

Iron Mountain—Clyde Luke, former fifth ward alderman and sponsor of a movement to obtain sentiment on his proposal for the adoption of the commission -manager form of government in Iron Mountain, will get his first real opening on May 13, at a dinner meeting in Benzo's hall, when there will be a discussion of the proposal and a straw vote taken.

Luke appeared before the Iron Mountain city council recently with the proposal, talking at some length on city's experiences since the adoption of the aldermanic charter. He mentioned his effort along the line of commission-manager goverment previous to the adoption of that charter and said that, while sentiment was against it at that time, residents of the community may now have different ideas.

Infantry and cavalry courses will be offered at Camp Custer. Infantry only will be trained at Fort Brady.

Conservation Exhibit Will Be Seen Here

A huge conservation exhibit, now making its initial tour of the upper peninsula has been scheduled for May 6 and 7 at Escanaba, it was announced by the conservation department.

The exhibit will be brought here through the efforts of the local staff of the conservation department.

Transported by automobile trailer, the exhibit, considered to be the most diversified of its kind ever assembled will be under the personal direction of Frank McClellan, upper peninsula representative of the Education Division of the Department of Conservation.

The senior and junior high school gymnasiums have been offered for housing the conservation exhibit which will occupy a space 50 by 15 feet. A definite schedule of the hours it will be at each school will be announced next week.

Among the outstanding features of the exhibit will be specially mounted specimens of a hundred species of fish found in Michigan waters; as many mounted specimens of upland waterfowl and predatory birds; a series of 15 murals depicting various phases of conservation activities and a selection of furs of all Michigan fur bearing animals.

Another feature of the exhibit will be continuous Michigan wild life motion pictures which will be shown during the evening.

Efforts are being made through school authorities to give all school children an opportunity to see the exhibit during the day time hours. The evenings will be reserved for adults.

Dog Earns $2,000 Bequest For Owner

Detroit, April 28. (AP)—Prince, dog, has earned a $2,000 bequest for his owners, Mr. and Mrs. Baden P. Riddell.

Although Prince was distrustful of strangers, he formed a strong attachment for Miss Francis H. C. Mercer, an elderly woman who passed the Riddell home frequently. The liking was reciprocated.

Miss Mercer died of a stroke of apoplexy on the Riddell porch, and Prince stood guard over her body until someone arrived.

Her will, filed for probate today, included a codicil bequeathing to the Riddells whatever sum is required to complete the payments on the home. The Riddells said about $2,000 would be needed.

The codicil explained:

"The purpose is to provide a home for their dog, Prince."

Brewing Company Granted License

Lansing, April 28. (AP)—The state liquor control commission agreed tentatively today to license the newly formed Michigan Brewing company of Grand Rapids.

The company reserved final approval of the license application until the company has completed installation of equipment in conformance with regulations. Approximately $500,000 worth of stock has been subscribed.

Officers of the new company are

He added that "blind conformity to a party label and support of tickets selected and controlled by selfish interests has no appeal to me."

Congressman Gets Loan, Then Marries Stenographer, 21

Annapolis, Md., April 28 (AP)—Rep. Marion A. Zioncheck of Seattle, Wash., married Miss Rubye Louis Nix here today—but only after he had offered to post his watch as security for a $2 loan to get the marriage license.

The congressman, figure in recent clashes with Washington police and courts, mainly on traffic counts, finally borrowed the money without having to leave the watch. The Rev. Mr. Paul R. Diehl married the representative and the pretty, 21-year-old Texarkana, Ark., stenographer a few minutes later in the living room of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church rectory.

Lawrence L. Merrill, deputy clerk of the court, lent Zioncheck the money enabling him to carry on with his romance.

Mr. Diehl declined to say whether Zioncheck had paid him anything.

$40 TOP PRICE FOR BIG FIGHT

Fancy Figures Decided Upon for Schmeling-Louis Carnage

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, April 29. (AP)—Boom times officially returned to the boxing industry today as Mike Jacobs announced a $40 top for the heavyweight bout between Joe Louis and Max Schmeling in the Yankee stadium June 18.

Not since the lush years of 1923-29 has any promoter dared to boost the ante so high and no other tickets for a non-championship bout, listed for public sale, ever have carried so expensive a label. So-called "patron press" ducats for Schmeling's tussle with Paulino Uzcudun here just before the depression struck, were priced at $50, however.

Scaling his prices from $3 to $40 including tax, Jacobs predicted the 15-round bout between Detroit's "dark destroyer" and Schmeling, former holder of the title, would draw gross gate receipts of $1,500,000.

$1,500,000 Gato

Except for the restricted "patron press" seats of the Paulino-Schmeling match, the $50 ringside seats for Jack Dempsey's heavyweight title defense against Georges Carpentier at Jersey City in 1921 stand as the highest priced ducats in boxing history.

Louis' spectacular surge through the heavyweight division has led most experts to believe that Jacobs is conservative, if anything, in predicting a $1,500,000 gate. They pointed out that Louis and Max Baer drew just under $950,000 and Louis and Primo Carnera more than $325,000 last year with the "house" scaled well under the prices that will prevail for the negro's battle with Schmeling.

With the completion of alterations, the stadium will be able to accommodate between 90,000 and 100,000 for boxing and the Louis-Schmeling match may be a sell-out.

While Jacobs was deciding on the all-important matter of prices Schmeling decided to defer his departure to his training camp at Napanoch, N. Y., until Friday. Louis expects to reach his preliminary training site at Lafayetteville, N. Y., tomorrow.

PENSION PLAN MEMBERS BOO REP. HOFFMAN

here, the officials opened the inquiry as a friendly suit, brought under an old Michigan statute which gives a justice of the peace power to impose a peace bond where a threat is made to disturb the peace.

I. E. Barnes, Penfield justice, presided over a trial of Alfred Allen, secretary of a Battle Creek Townsend club on a complaint brought by Orwin Adams, a Townsend worker. The warrant charged Allen with seeking to sell Townsend memberships in the township.

Hostile Audience

About 25 followers of the movement attended this hearing.

Removal of the Hoffman hearing from Detroit into the stronghold of the Michigan Townsend organizations brought little success to the fourth district congressman.

Most of the 300 spectators at the hearing were hostile from the start, as they jeered Hoffman's entrance to the meeting room, and then cheered wildly as his opponent for renomination, Dr. Felix A. Racette, Paw Paw dentist and Townsend candidate, entered the room.

Mrs. Plough, first witness called, stated her club at Kalamazoo had collected $785 from membership fees and $623 in dues at meetings, but had realized only $28.12 from an agreement from some merchants there on the patronage refund plan.

To many questions she protested she could not reply without records, and at one point a spectator on a back seat shouted "tell him you don't know."

Moody was the second witness.

Hoffman, member of a house committee designated to probe the activities of the Townsend organization, came to Michigan to conduct hearings while other representatives went to California to investigate the parent organization originated by Dr. Francis E. Townsend in his effort to have a $200 monthly pension provided by congress for the aged.

The congressman did not indicate which of the remaining six witnesses he would summon when the hearing resumes Thursday, or what line of attack he will take in his questioning.

He is expected to conclude his investigation here tomorrow, and indicated he might go on to Kalamazoo if sufficient material was developed.

Driscoll, Cahee Win Top Honors At Racine Meet

Racine, Wis.—Milwaukee bowlers were in possession of 29 out of 42 places as the thirty-fourth state bowling tournament ended with doubles and singles Monday night.

Charles Cape and Geg Wright, Racine, collected $110 for the regular doubles title with 1,310 which they bowled two days before the close of the tournament. The state record is 1,346, set in 1932 by J. Lange and A. Kruger, Watertown.

In the 350 doubles, top honors and $125 went to S. Cahee and C. Driscoll, Escanaba, Mich., on 1,257, 58 pins better than the former state record of 1,199 by Becker and Schiller, Milwaukee, last year.

Mike Malouf, Milwaukee, got $110 for the regular singles championship with 724. The state record is 751, rolled by Hank Marino, Milwaukee, in 1934. Another Milwaukeean, H. Schmidt, took the 175 singles division championship and $70 with 673 which is 40 points better than the former state record of 632 by H. Verle, Milwaukee, in 1935.

WILL BID FOR BOWLING MEET

Hermansville Seeking To Have Tournament in 1938

Hermansville, Mich.—Hermansville will make a bid for the 1938 U. P. bowling tournament.

At a meeting of Hermansville Bowling League, held last week, a committee of eight was appointed to work with officers of the league to procure the 1938 Upper Peninsula bowling tournament for Hermansville. There was a great deal of enthusiasm shown by the league members and everyone present felt that on account of the way Hermansville handled the tournament when it was held here several years ago, that the bowlers of the upper peninsula would know that they would be well taken care of. Besides the committee of eight, which is composed of the following: G. H. Earle, C. J. Quade, B. Vescolani, J. St. Juliana, Ed. Berg, O. Wilfong, W. Eisenzoph and G. Curran, the league officers for 1936-37 bowling season were elected as follows:

President—I. W. Rowell.
Secretary—J. Reidy.
Treasurer—Neil Sinclair.

Red Sox Regain First Place By Beating Chicago

Boston, April 29. (AP)—The Red Sox, waging an uphill battle most of the game, regained first place today by topping the Chicago White Sox, 8-7, before a 10,000 mid-week crowd. Rick Ferrell's single with one out and the bases loaded in the ninth brought in Rog Cramer with the winning run.

LOCAL WOMAN PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Isabel Conahan, 76, Dies After Lengthy Illness

Mrs. Isabel Conahan, 76, passed away at her home, 305 South 12th street, yesterday morning after a lengthy illness caused by complications. She was the widow of Owen Conahan who died five years ago.

She was born November 15, 1859, in Ireland but has been a resident of this community for many years. She was a member of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Order of Hibernians.

The body was taken to the Murphy Funeral Home to be prepared for burial and will remain there until the hour of services. Funeral arrangements are not complete.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Mary Whitehead of Escanaba and Mrs. Nellie Morris of Manitowoc, and two sons, John of Escanaba and Lawrence of Milwaukee.

Stock Boosted For Auditor General

An energetic campaign in behalf of the candidacy of Richard B. Stack, Escanaba councilman, for the office of auditor general, once held by his brother, the late John K. Stack, Jr., was launched yesterday.

Organization of the Richard B. Stack for Auditor General committee was effected at a meeting this week. A state-wide campaign will be conducted by this group throughout the summer, winding up with the Democratic state convention in the fall.

Other Upper Peninsula Democrats are being boomed for the auditor general's nomination, including Earl M. LaFreniere, Norway; Lee McGinley, Marquette, and State Rep. James K. Jamison of Ontonagon.

Smallest Municipal Park Is Established

Iron Mountain — What is thought to be the smallest municipal park in the country is located in the middle of the proposed route of Cloverland Trail, M-12, US-2, near Watersmeet, now under construction as a works progress administration project. The park consists of 25 square feet of ground and one lonesome pine tree, visible for five miles. Encompassed by a heavy iron fence the miniature park is cared for by the Gogebic county highway commission.

WPA workers on a federal writers project recently uncovered the history of the tiny development. Years ago, road builders were clearing the right-of-way for the trail, when A. D. Johnston, chairman of the Gogebic county highway commission, and Thomas Conlin, editor of the Crystal Falls "Diamond Drill," perceived the towering tree directly in the path of the swinging axes. At their request the tree was spared. To protect it further, the park was established.

Moras Appointed Revenue Collector

Roger J. Moras, 1215 Fourth Avenue South, was notified yesterday of his appointment as deputy collector of customs at Escanaba to succeed Levi Perrin, Escanaba druggist, who is resigning the position, effective May 1.

Mr. Moras, who is employed as car dispatcher for the Chicago and North Western railway, received notification from Martin R. Bradley, formerly of Hermansville, who is now U. S. collector of customs at Detroit.

PYTHIANS HAVE GALA 'ROUNDUP'

Iron Range Lodges in Attendance at Big Escanaba Meeting

One of the most impressive and colorful events in the memory of Escanaba Pythians was the very enjoyable meeting Tuesday night at Odd Fellows hall. About 150 people, including Knights, Sisters, and Pythian ladies made up the happy group who gave closest attention to a pleasing and well diversified program.

C. B. Smith filled the difficult position of master of ceremonies in a very capable and pleasing fashion. He welcomed the out of town guests, which was briefly acknowledged by District Deputy Wm. Anderson of Hermansville for the visitors. Mr. Anderson gave the key-note address—a pleasing and impressive talk on Pythianism. Several short talks were made by visiting and local Knights and ladies. Past Grand Chief Mrs. Mike Green in welcoming Pythian Sister guests expressed her pleasure in meeting again many of the ladies who were active during her term as grand chief.

The Karas string orchestra, Joan Lindsay piano accompanist, then rendered three pleasing numbers for which they were roundly applauded.

Miss Anita Swanson gave a most remarkable interpretation of acrobatic dancing. She thrilled her audience and literally danced her way into their hearts. She was forced to respond to a most enthusiastic encore. She was accompanied on the piano by Orval Kallin.

Willard Norby, local humorist and character impersonator, who recently appeared over WGN, put on a varied act of humor, song and dance. He was assisted in one of the song hits by his accompanist, Orval Kallin. One of Mr. Norby's pleasing numbers was his intrepretation of the Swedish version of the popular song number of yester-year—"Yes, We Have No Bananas."

Past Chancellor Chapman W. Smith gave a short history of the local Pythian lodge and also the local Pythian Sisters lodge which showed careful preparation and was interesting to all.

In the dining hall the guests and locals as well seemed to find that sort of satisfaction which is always the result of a well cooked, well planned lunch. Everybody left for home, declaring this to be "tops" among all Pythian celebrations in the peninsula for a decade.

LESS THAN 1½c PER DAY buys this Washer

CORONADO ELECTRIC WASHER

We don't believe that there's a housewife in the nation who wouldn't be willing to pay 1½c per day to take all the hard work and drudgery out of wash day. It would cost even less than that to own and use this fine washer. Here's how we figure it—a very conservative estimate of the life of this sturdy machine would be 10 years, (we know it will last much longer) the cost of the washer divided by the lifetime in days would show an actual "cost per day" of LESS THAN 1½c. That's real economy!

This CORONADO is an extreme value. Every desirable feature possible has been built into it. It has genuine LOVELL balloon type wringer, Adjustable Pressure, Automatic Reset Lever (changes wringer from safety to wringing pressure with one movement). Patented High Blade Agitator, Porcelain Ribbed Tub (3 coats).

Cash Price.......... $49.50

EASY PAYMENT PLAN — $5.00 DOWN, $1.25 PER WEEK

CORONADO POWER WASHER

Price at one time may have stood between the farm housewife and a good dependable power washer. But not now! Gamble's have broken down that last barrier with this fine model. Has all Coronado washer features. Drop in and see it operate. Cash Price.......... $63.95

EASY PAYMENT PLAN — $7.00 DOWN, $1.75 PER WEEK

A Coronado Refrigerator For ONLY 2¢ PER DAY!

That's more economical than buying ice! Is there any question which method of refrigeration you'd prefer? For the purpose of comparison and to estimate the "cost per day" we used a lifetime of just 10 years on this Coronado, but we know that it will be "going strong" for many years after that. The cost divided by 3650 days (10 years) gives an approximate cost of 2c per day.

Cash Price—Model G46... $79.50

Easy Terms $8.00 Down

Preparations Made For Fire Season

Newberry, April 29—Preparations for the spring fire season are going on now throughout District Six. On Monday of this week the first two fires were reported, both small, and doing no damage, being found at once and quickly put out. Reuban Johnston reported one east of the state hospital in the grass among the evergreen windbreak along M-28. Mrs. Kubont at Leketon reported the other.

The Newberry tower was manned on Tuesday, R. J. Beach being again in charge. Plenty of water and snow in the country surrounding the other four towers in Luce county make it necessary for them to be manned now. Fire fighting equipment was distributed on Tuesday to the Seney marsh territory to fire wardens and towermen. This season of the year, before the green grass and leaves have started, is generally one during which many grass fires keep the fire fighting department busy.

TEACHERS HIRED

All qualified teachers in the Newberry school system will receive contracts within a few days, the special meeting of the board of education on Tuesday night inviting them to return. Salary adjustments were made correcting some of the changes made necessary because of the shortage of funds during the past few years. No other changes were made at this time.

DR. HART, SPEAKER

Dr. C. D. Hart, health officer for the Tri-County district, was the speaker of the evening at the regular meeting of the Business and Professional Woman's club, held on Tuesday evening in the Community building. Dr. Hart spoke on the work the department is doing, some of the plans for the future, and the value and need of health as a part of the educational program of the county. The program was in charge of the health committee.

The dinner committee was made up of: R. Goudrault, B. Bushnell, F. Young, L. VanMere, A. Banfield and B. Anderson. The next meeting will be the annual Mother's Day dinner and program.

TRAFFIC HAZARD

This reporter has been asked by a citizen to mention the traffic hazard on the street running parallel with Newberry avenue and to the east of it. Motorists use this street as a through street, paying little or no attention to any stop signs on it. As the street is gravel covered the dust is bad from such reckless driving and worse, the dozens of children who must cross the street, are subjected to danger of death or injury.

The citizen reports that officers report they can do nothing unless the village council takes up the matter. It was on this street that one man was killed and two women seriously injured, one who remained in the local hospital for many weeks. Officers suggest that citizens ask that something be done to correct this condition so that their duties will be plain.

Mrs. Fred Taylor of Lakefield is making a rapid recovery after submitting to a serious operation at the local hospital on April 24.

A daughter was born on April 28 to Mr. and Mrs. Reuban Gustafson of Brevort in the Perry-Spinks hospital. Mother and little girl are doing nicely.

DEMS ENDORSE COUZENS

Sault Ste. Marie — Senator James Couzens today had an invitation from Chippewa county Democrats to run for U. S. senator in the Democratic primary next September.

The invitation was extended at the Chippewa county convention Saturday night at the city hall in a resolution introduced from all convention floor by Frank Paduan and unanimously adopted by the convention.

Eight delegates were elected to attend the state convention at Grand Rapids May 20. They will be sent uninstructed, each with half a vote. Eight alternates were also selected by the nominations committee of George J. Laurie, chairman, George W. Reed, Hugh W. Murray, Frank Paduan, and Judge John N. Fegan.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Barn Destroyed By Fire At Rock When Lightning Strikes

Rock, Mich., April 29.—Fire destroyed a cattle barn on the farm of Mrs. Alec Mikkila, a mile east of Rock, when lightning struck the building early Wednesday morning.

With the exception of two calves and one pig, all animals were removed from the burning building alive. Several tons of hay and a winter's supply of stove wood was lost in flames.

Fortunately, a strong wind was blowing and kept the flames from spreading in the direction of the house and other buildings.

PAINFULLY INJURED

Ted Kaminen, who is employed in Larson Bros. store here, was painfully injured when his car struck a tree stump at the Gladstone park near the bay shore on Sunday night. He was badly cut about the head, lost several teeth, suffered chest injuries and was badly shaken up.

Kaminen, returning from Escanaba about midnight after taking a woman to the hospital, met a car that was zig-zagging across the road. In order to avoid the car he swerved to the side and struck a stump. His body went through the windshield and he was found sometime later, unconsciously hanging by his feet from the windshield.

No trace of the other car has been found.

FAVORS HEALTH UNIT

The Maple Ridge township board of education at a regular meeting held Monday night at the local school passed a resolution favoring the proposed Public Health Unit of Delta county.

The resolution follows:

Recognizing the need for a Public Health Unit in Delta county to promote better sanitation and to improve conditions for the prevention of disease epidemics, the board of education of Maple Ridge township heartily endorses the action of the board of supervisors in the appointment of a committee to study ways and means for the adoption of such a program.

Sold Cut Alcohol, Is Charge Against Menominee Dealer

Albert W. Schomer, 58, of Menominee, has been bound over to federal court for violation of the internal revenue act. He is charged with "cut" alcohol.

Schomer was arrested at Menominee and brought to the county jail in Escanaba by Thomas W. Scott, internal revenue agent. He was arraigned here before M. Robert Deo, U. S. court commissioner, and was taken to the county jail in Marquette by Ray Hill, deputy U. S. marshal.

Schomer was arrested when he came from a tavern and unlocked his car, which had been parked on the street. In his statement Schomer said he sold a pint of the alcohol and water mixture for 50 cents.

Searching the car after arresting Schomer the officers found two-thirds of a gallon and three pints of "cut" alcohol. Schomer confessed that he began buying alcohol in Marinette in February this year, diluting it with water and selling it for 50 cents a pint. He disposed of about one gallon of alcohol each week, Schomer confessed.

Schomers' car, a coach, was confiscated.

WAS SUICIDE PACT

Marquette—The deaths of two life inmates at the Marquette prison Sunday afternoon were ascertained definitely to be the result of a suicide pact yesterday when Warden Walter E. Gries announced that a note had been found in the ice plant indicating the convicts had planned to kill themselves because "there was nothing in life for either one of us."

The body of one of the men, Edward Stewart, 34, of Detroit, was found about 25 feet from the ice plant and that of Theodore McDermott, 30, of Lapeer, inside the building. They were discovered as prison inmates were returning from the Sunday afternoon entertainment in the chapel, about 2:20 o'clock.

Civil Service Hearing

UPPER PENINSULA citizens will be given an opportunity to tell what kind of a civil service system they wish established in Michigan when the commission, headed by Prof. James K. Pollock of the University of Michigan, conducts a public hearing in Escanaba May 6.

Professor Pollock, who is recognized as one of the outstanding authorities on governmental systems, is directing the Michigan civil service commission through an exhaustive study of the proposal to institute a merit system in this state. Hearings are being held in various parts of the state so as to obtain a good cross-section opinion of the people of Michigan.

Agitation for civil service reform has been going on in Michigan for many years. It has been promised in the platforms of both the Republican and Democratic parties, but it was not until Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald assumed office that a definite start was made toward achieving this objective.

Of course, the governor's appointment of a civil service study commission alone does not guarantee the inauguration of a merit system for state government personnel. Legislatures and politicians have been dodging civil service reform for years and, while it is a certainty that the Pollock commission will draft the outlines of the best possible plan it may be punctured full of loop holes when the legislators go into action.

Michigan citizens, who are hopeful of seeing the attainment of better state government through civil service, should save some of their ammunition until the merit plan is submitted to the legislature for enactment into law. Then is when it will be decided whether misfits, drones, handshakers and chair-warmers, who have been able to get soft state jobs because of political pull, will remain in the public service at the overly-burdened taxpayers' expense.

History for Tourists

NEW YORK, Virginia and other eastern states are erecting markers along automobile routes to inform tourists concerning the historical background of the region through which they are traveling.

According to the New York Times, Virginia has marked her highways with a complete system of "history written on iron." Markers are arranged to tell connected stories. For instance, the movements of Grant's and Lee's armies can be followed by the traveler as his car retraces the routes of marching and campaigning.

Both New Jersey and Connecticut have set up painted markers with the names of all brooks that cross motor highways. Connecticut has placed dates on a great many of its oldest houses, showing when the houses were built and by what family. Informative signs along highways in the East to some extent are replacing commercial billboards.

A similar plan has been advocated for some time in the Upper Peninsula, which has a wealth of scenery, rivers, lakes and historic lore unrivaled by any other state. A proposal to adopt an "Indian Head" sign for marking interesting places along Upper Peninsula highways has attracted considerable interest of late and may be put into effect soon. Any kind of marker that is used should be dignified and attractive and not merely something else to clutter up the landscape, however.

The Townsend Inquiry

TESTIMONIAL given by Jack D. Leasia, executive secretary to Wilber M. Brucker during his term as governor and more recently Michigan manager for the Townsend old age pension plan organization, reveals definite evidences that the whole thing is pretty much of a racket, although some of the charges made by Leasia are denied by those who are still holding jobs with the organization.

Leasia told an amazing story of being advised by his superiors not to organize too rapidly as it was desired to "milk the cow" for at least two more years. He also testified that high officers of the Townsend group were putting on lavish dinners in night clubs and charging up the bills to their expense accounts, to be paid for by the dimes and nickels contributed by the club members, many of whom have to scratch around to find enough pennies to pay their dues.

There are charges and counter-charges, of course. Some of the bad things being said about the activities of the high officials of the Townsend organization may not be true, but there is an old adage, which says, "Where there is smoke there must be fire," and to some extent it must hold good in this instance.

The American public long has been a sucker for rackets. All one has to do is to get out a letter-head, bearing the high-sounding name of some "worthy" humanitarian organization for the prevention or promotion of this or that; a mimeograph to turn out propaganda leaflets; and give oneself the impressive title of "executive secretary," and the money will start rolling in.

There is some good in all this Townsendism, however It demonstrates that the American people are intensely interested in what is being called "social security," and although the Townsend plan is unworkable it will serve to speed up the movement toward the attainment of a sensible and adequate plan for the relief of the aged unemployed.

Watchdogs of Freedom

ONE had only to follow the proceedings of the American Newspaper Publishers' convention, just closed in New York, to realize that "liberty" as Americans visualize it is really in little danger ever of being surrendered here.

For the American editor, tenaciously pursuing the ideals of a free press, free speech and a free country, is a sleepless watchdog when it comes to these human rights. At even the faintest hint of intrusion, he is ready with a warning snarl.

The tone of the addresses an dthe resolutions endorsed by the New York convention is all the evidence one needs that America is well grounded in the pursuit of liberty. And should the nation ever lose one iota of its freedom it will do so only over the dead bodies of these editors, so to speak. They are today the "minute men" of freedom in an otherwise chaotic, regimented world.

Politics In Crime

CONSIDER your plight as the average American citizen.

There are 300,000 people now living who will be murdered. You may be one of them.

There are 150,000 actual murderers roaming at large. One or more of these may be shadowing your personal safety.

And, finally, you are inadequately protected under the law, even if "justice" is dispensed, because the average murderers serves only four years in prison.

These are the startling statistic of J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice. The figures are so threatening, he says, because America's law enforcement agencies are "hampered, hamstrung, and strangled by the blood-caked hand of crime-affiliated politics."

Think it over.

AROUND THE PENINSULA
(Ironwood Globe)

RESIDENTS of some communities in the Peninsula perhaps wonder why newspapers in mining areas print so many stock quotations. The simple answer is that there is much speculating and investing on the part of a large number of residjents of mine cities. For example, one resident of the Peninsula holds considerable more than 1,500 shares of Anaconda, which has been quoted at between $35 and $40 a share of late and during the pre-depression period was well over the $100 mark. At present prices his holdings are worth wel lover $50,000 and naturally he is interested in the daily quotations.

A former truck driver in the Iron Mountain street department demands reinstatement under the veterans' preference act and says, "I shall report to the city engineer for work every day and will hold the city responsible for the wages due me during the time that I am illegally denied employment." He doesn't have to report for work, judging from decisions in the courts. If he was fired and somebody else got his job, he will probably win it back unless his case is vastly different from other veterans' cases that have come up from time to time.

After serving Crystal Falls as city manager nearly 20 years, James H. Sanders has been let out and a member of the city commission appointed in his place. Sanders evidently sensed his dismissal was coming, so he billed the city for back salary of $50 a month for 10 months, amounting to the cut in salary he took. The city attorney ruled the claim was legitimate, saying the commission is obliged to set the salaries of its officials at the April meeting and those salaries may not be reduced during the term. Now the Crystal Falls commission wonders if it will have to pay back salaries to various other city officers who took salary reductions when Sanders did.

The report is made that "Uncle Herb" Rushton of Escanaba may be named manager of the Upper Peninsula State Fair, a position now held by Bob Pryal. Well, it wouldn't be at all surprising, since Rushton is friendly with the governor again after a break that came when the governor did not endorse Rushton for attorney general. Probably more important is whether Escanaba can induce the state to make a substantial appropriation for the operation of the fair. And that shouldn't be very difficult in an election year.

Upper Peninsula automobile dealers will go sled length for the suggestion of Orville E. Atwood, secretary of state, that the provision for a sales tax on used automobiles should be repealed. Dealers thoroughly dislike the arrangement whereby a sales tax is paid on a used automobile every time it is resold and another on a new car. The only trouble with Atwood's suggestion is that it invites attempts to repeal other provisions of the sales tax law which, if they were carried out, might leave the sales tax revenue a comparatively trifling sum.

The Zoo will go for winter sports in a big way if taxpayers decide favorably at a special election June 1. The proposal is to build a $75,000 community building rink. The plans call for skating space of 85 by 185 feet, seating space for 2,500 persons, a second floor auditorium, dressing rooms, and so forth. But the proposal for an artificial ice making plant has been rejected because the cost would be too great. With a large rink, the Soo could stage winter carnivals and what not.

Men operating trucks on WPA projects in Marquette county want to know why they have been paid so irregularly and why they have had to wait comparatively long periods for their checks. While those questions are being settled, it should also be determined how many truck drivers are operating one or more trucks for other persons. Reports persist that persons not entitled to WPA assistance are profiting by various projects by hiring out trucks.

Your Nation's Affairs

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—Recent reports of indications that the big business-big finance opposition to Roosevelt was abating in its fury—with belief in the probability of his re-election resulting in an increasing disposition to make the best of a "bad business," even to planning horse trades with the administration—have brought corroborative details to this writer, but no denials.

Al E. Smith

Whatever the future of this tendency among the big boys, it can be reported that Roosevelt himself is right now as "cocky" about the outlook as he has been at any time in the last four years and that this "cockiness" spreads right down through the administration.

The president has felt himself on the upgrade ever since Al Smith made that Liberty League dinner speech. He believes that even the hostile shrieks of big business are subsiding behind mounting piles of industrial profits.

High officials in intimate touch with the private banking industry have told Roosevelt that as business improves the fears of the industrial-financial groups are subsiding. This is the way they explain it:

The administration has stood up against the threat of printing press money and the inflationists have practically folded up.

The inflation threat from excess reserves seems less menacing the longer its exists without materializing, and the more it appears that bankers aren't eager to lend rashly and that few want to borrow.

The inflation threat from a rising stock market is discounted, because the Federal Reserve Board has twice boosted margin requirements and it's felt that the board won't hesitate in an emergency to use other ways to halt a runaway boom—such as its power to eliminate excess reserves.

—SPENDING WORRY ALLAYED—

Worry over government spending isn't what it was, because government itself has indicated an increasing concern over it. Better business means increased tax collections and there is promise of decreasing deficits.

Many corporations don't want the budget "balanced too much." Government spending has gone back into bank deposits until adjusted demand deposits are now back at approximately the 1929 figure.

The deposits are idle, but are largely in favor of large corporations, which finally skim off most of the profits as the government money goes 'round and around.

RFC, HOLC, and FCA are now liquidating, taking in more money than they're paying out, and creating a profit.

(All of which is a pretty picture drawn by important gentlemen with offices on Fifteenth Street, where you'll find the Treasury and Federal Reserve Board quarters.)

—KICKBACK FOR D. A. R.

The D. A. R. seems to be another of those organizations which produce boomerang type attacks on the administration.

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, who gets very little sympathy around Washington, benefited rather than suffered from a yarn said to have been circulated by the Pennsylvania D. A. R. regent to local chapters, to the effect that Miss Perkins had been one Matilda Wutski, who married a man named Paul Wilson in 1910.

Source of the falsehood was revealed at the D. A. R. convention here when Mrs. William A. Becker, president general, disavowed with visible embarrassment all responsibility for its circulation to the chapters.

—TRICKS PLAYED ON G. O. P.

There's plenty of room for suspicion that Democratic leaders aren't at all impressed with the desirability of adjourning Congress before the Republican convention in Cleveland June 9. Although the more important Republican members probably will be able to get to Cleveland, the fact that Congress is in session tends to take a bit of the edge off a party's political show.

Roosevelt himself has arranged to be very much in the limelight during the G. O. P. session and anything his boys in Congress can do to take the limelight off Cleveland will be willingly contributed.

The Literary Guidepost

BY JOHN SELBY

"THE COWBOY," by Philip Ashton Rollins; (Scribners).

AFTER 14 years Philip Ashton Rollin's "The Cowboy" has enough vitality in it to demand a "new and completely revised" edition. It may demand others decades hence, for it is a unique source book on western life, unique because it is fascinating reading as well as a compilation of information.

It is a collection of information on the life, sport, dress, drinking, humor, danger (and more) of western life. It is the sort of book one can open at any page, and lose oneself in for hours. This reader, who missed the book when it was published years ago, did just that, the page being 74. Mr. Rollins is speaking of the convention which compelled cowboys to speak tersely, when framing a sentence to "bobtail her and fill her with meat."

A common adjuration to a "windy" speaker was to "save part of your breath for breathing." One puncher, Mr. Rollins continues, "when asked for his opinion about his empolyer, replied: 'Can't put it in words. Give me an emetic'."

Some of the figures concocted under this system have startling beauty. One man in chaps, taking his first look at the grand canyon of the Yellowstone, sat silent a moment and then saluted. What he said later was "God dug that there hole in anger, and painted it in joy." A guide and another man were hunting mountain sheep high up on a peak. The sun reached the edge of the snow field just as the man shouted "There's a big ram." The guide answered. "Shut up. God's waking."

The chapter on trailing is a marvelous job. The reason for the traditional costumes and their variants, and exactly what these were and where they came from and what they cost is material for a whole book—many have been written on less information. Frontier medicines and nursing, riding in all its ramifications, the cattle themselves and their handling are included. So much is included that a mere catalog would run into columns.

THE GREAT PHILOSOPHERS

The great philosophers may think
They stand on rostrums, write with ink,
And lead mankind with theories—
And yet I greatly doubt if these
Are great philosophers at all.
They are too great, they are too tall
A truth to fashion or to find
Simple enough to serve mankind.

The sphere they live in is as far
From where we live as star from star.
They move in orbits, often we
In circles they can never see.
They understand the human race,
But not the people of a place.
They never hear, so far apart,
The beating of a single heart.

The great philosophers indeed
Are not the ones who write and read
But rather those who think and pray,
Man near, and God not far away.
They stand beside the bier of grief,
Have less of learning, more belief,
And do not "think" a thing is so—

New York Column

BY JACK STINNETT

NEW YORK—Perhaps a bit weary of hearing itself being called "old hat" which is art terminology for old fogey, the Salmagundi club has gone hilariously berserk.

While the Modern museum is seriously exhibiting the work of modern art pioneers in the fields of surrealism, amorphism, suprematism, Dadaism cubism, concretism, and such the Salmagundi club at the lower end of Fifth avenue is having its own exhibition of isms.

JACK STINNETT

It's the most ambitious effort toward panning that the art world has seen in years and the chuckles of critic and layman it is evoking are a testimonial to the artistic sense of humor.

"Nick Papadapoulas," much better known as Hobart Nichols, for example, has evolved a surrealist still life, called "I Have Four Apples." It consists of three bananas nailed on a cardboard background. Since it is a dictum of the show that all fruit must be fresh, the bananas are changed daily.

• • •

THERE'S a Salmagundi conception of that famous "Nude Descending the Stairs," which consists of a disrobed lady of generous curves sliding down the banisters. The artist, however, was anticipated in this. Tanya Cubitt, the San Diego nudist queen, made a similar descent at her hotel during a recent visit to the metropolis.

Another surrealist jibe is Otto F. Langmann's "Portrait by Egmont," in which a hard-boiled egg is super-imposed on three pieces of toast.

"Oy—A Drama of the Sea," is more realist than anything else, being a stern view of a lower East Side madame at the rail of a storm-tossed ship.

James Calvert Smith has gone in for suprematism. His "Negro Stealing Chicken," shows black, white and red squares arranged on the canvas over which is stretched a square of real chicken wire.

• • •

PETER BLUME'S "South of Scranton," which won a first prize last year at the Carnegie International in Pittsburgh, is lampooned in Ray Wilcox's prize-winning "South of Waltham (Mass.)" which also takes a poke at Dali. The picture shows limpid watches draped over the railroad tracks in the path of a New Haven freight train.

Sidney E. Dickinson's "The Pale Rider," which won a National academy prize this year is burlesqued by a similarly titled piece which shows Haile Selassie holding the curtain behind a mulatto woman whose thin arms and hands are fastened at the joints with pegs. It was executed by Vic G. Anderson.

Prices asked also win their share of ridicule. There is a creation called "The Defense rests," for example, which consists of absolutely nothing in a dark frame. The tag states clearly that the price is $5,000,000 but the artist offers to accept the alternative of "One sunsuit, either sex."

The "elephant" shrew is one of the world's smallest animals.

News Behind The News

BY PAUL MALLON

Washington, April 29.—The best story about business today is that there is no story. Nothing extraordinary appears to be behind the better federal statistics. No unusual situations have stirred an extra vigor in the spring rise.

Paul Mallon

Merely the cumulative effects of improvement seem to be involved in the better figures for April which will be out in a few days. The tendency of self-acceleration is working on the way up as it did on the way down.

Thus, a thousand little things rather than dominant factors appear to have worked industrial production up to about 97 per cent of normal currently.

—INDUSTRY—

The four-month level of production around 95 per cent represents the wide bestirring of the durable goods industries which began late last fall. Recent production increases centered in steel, automobiles and building materials.

The operation of steel mills at around 70 per cent of normal is not due entirely to greater automobile demand, but also to increased demand from railroads and building. The first four months of automobile production this year will be higher than last, in spite of the fact that the new models were brought out in October this season instead of in January as usual. The auto market is standing up. Building, while still less than half of normal, is nevertheless showing employment gains.

Another thing, the April increase was entirely in the manufacturing phase of production, and not in the mining phase, which showed a slight decrease.

In other words, it all looks real.

—NOTES—

A close connection seems to exist between the employment index and department store sales. You will notice both are estimated at exactly 86 per cent for April. They have kept close to each other during the depression.

Behind the stability of the price index is the fact that manufacturing and industrial prices have not changed in the aggregate during the last few months.

The flood and the drop in coal production after the cold spell are what caused the dip in freight car loadings during March.

—WARNING—

A general European peace agreement is expected in the not too distant future. It will involve Great Britain, France and Germany and will probably be hailed as a new era. It won't be.

The dope here is that Hitler will be willing to sign a peace agreement in which many pledges are made, even concerning the eastern frontier. His idea will be to maintain Britain's friendship and avoid any drastic action by France. The way is now being quietly cleared for bargaining over such an agreement.

But, even if Hitler swears it, no one here will believe he has abandoned his eastern hopes. Treaties have been made before—and broken.

The time when he will move eastward is still problematical.

His last Rhineland move was timed to offset a dangerous situation developing between the radical and conservative elements among the Nazis and unrest among the German people. This is not French propaganda. Trustworthy confidential advices say such a situation actually existed.

When his domestic situation dictates again and when the foreign situation is quiet, Hitler will move and move eastward, no matter how many treaties are signed. He may be able to avoid it for a year, and then again he may not.

—RULE CHANGE—

Thrift may always be a virtue in the copybooks, but not in the relations of the citizen and the government.

Veterans have found that, if they borrowed 50 per cent on their bonus and paid no interest, all the interest due since September 30, 1931 is cancelled. But if they paid the interest they owed after that date, they get no credit whatever.

A veteran who borrowed 50 per cent in 1931 and put it out at interest could have picked up about $150 on the deal.

The radio comedian was horrified to learn that the lad who won his $5000 essay contest had lifted the article. Jokes, apparently, are fair game.

Chicago test reveals a sleeping person moves once every 10 minutes, which seems an unusually brief period between nightwatchman's rounds.

Now that AAA depredations among them have ceased, little piggies seem to be making a comeback. A Kentucky girl was born with 14 toes.

If that recently imported Hawaiian walking fish is introduced widely, we may yet hear the yarn of the one that ran away.

A golfer's case isn't really bad until, instead of pressing his auto horn, he yells "fore!"

The life of a westerner was saved when a bullet was deflected by a cigar lighter, which would seem to justify its existence.

"Selassie rumored to have shaved off beard to avoid capture by revolting northern tribesmen." Still, maybe Haile's enemies aren't easily revolted.

There can be no extenuating circumstance in that dastardly mailing of bombs, since it appears they did not accompany income tax payments.

I. O. O. F. MEETS IN MANISTIQUE

District Association to Hold Convention Saturday

The William J. Collins District Association of Odd Fellows, comprising lodges in Luce, Mackinac, Schoolcraft, Alger, Delta, Menominee and Marquette counties, will meet at the I. O. O. F. Temple in Manistique on May 2, beginning at 2:30 o'clock E. S. T. About 200 members from the district are expected to attend.

The association, since its organization has created a greater interest in lodge work and and it is expected about twenty-five member Odd Fellows from Escanaba will drive to Manistique to attend the session.

The Rebekahs from Manistique will serve supper at 5:30 o'clock, E. S. T.

Will Initiate Fifty

The afternoon session will consist of a business meeting.

The evening program will begin at 7:30 o'clock, C. S. T., and the Iniatory Degree will be conferred upon 50 candidates who will come from nearly every lodge represented in the association. The degree will be conferred by Manistique Lodge No. 353, I. O. O. F., who have produced wonderful work in that degree. They have taken the prize in competing with other good degree teams from the Upper Peninsula.

Following the degree work, short talks will be given by the several Past Grand Masters of the Upper Peninsula.

A grand ball will be held as soon afterward as the floor can be cleared and the music will be furnished by a local orchestra.

The association officers are: president, Arthur Roberts, Negaunee; vic president, Werner A. Olson, Escanaba; secretary, Hubert Norton, Manistique; treasurer, Edward Krieg, Marquette; warden, Osmund Allen, Ishpeming.

Forest Fire Fighting Personnel Announced By Conservation Dep't

Final preparations are being made by the Department of Conservation in District Five for the coming season. All the fire towers in the District, which is composed of Delta and Menominee Counties, are now manned, with the exception of the new Faithorn Tower which will be used for the first time in a very few days. The addition of the tower at Faithorn this year will aid greatly in the detection of fires in the West part of Menominee County.

According to figures compiled by the Department of Conservation over 90 percent of the forest fires occuring in Michigan last year were caused by human carelessness, illustrating how much the success of the work carried on by the Department depends on the cooperation of the people. The majority of fires which occur can be avoided if persons having occasion to be in the woods will be careful with fire.

It is necessary now for persons wishing to burn brush to first obtain a burning permit. The State Law makes it a misdemeanor to burn without getting a permit and the law will be strictly enforced. Permits may be obtained from the Escanaba District Headquarters and from all conservation officers, fire wardens and towermen whose names and locations are listed below.

The personnel of the Conservation Department forces in Delta and Menominee Counties for the 1936 season met at the District Headquarters at Escanaba for its organization meeting on Friday, April 24. Those present were:

Regional Supervisor — L. N. Jones, Marquette.

District Supervisor—Clare Farwell, Escanaba.

Ass't Dist. Supervisor — R. J. Furlong, Escanaba.

Headquarters Clerk—A. L. McNeil, Escanaba.

Delta County Officers

Conservation Officers—Willard Schwartz, Escanaba; Herman Leisner, Escanaba; Charles Coon, Gladstone; Erwin Belfy, Garden.

Fire Wardens—Wm. Haglund, Escanaba; Conrad Paulson, Escanaba; Oscar Sundquist, Rapid River; Joseph Reese, Brampton; Thomas Mellon, Garden.

Towermen — Miles Froberg, Flat Rock Tower; Wayne Young, Rapid River Tower.

Menominee County Officers

Conservation Officers — Sidney Andrews, Hermansville; Clarence Lienna, Stephenson.

Fire Wardens—Clyde Lambert, Whitney; Charles Koehn, Hermansville; Edward Deacon, Ingalls.

Towermen — Leslie Vickery, Spalding Tower; Robert Fraik, Stephenson Tower; Harry Underwood, Faithorn Tower.

Big Crowd At Perkins Program

The entertainment given at the Perkins town hall Tuesday evening, under the WPA recreational program, proved a great success, a capacity crowd enjoying it.

The program included numbers by the WPA string orchestra of Flat Rock under the able direction of Joseph Bussineau, members presenting a clever impersonation of Lulu Belle and her Mountaineers; soft shoe and tap routines by Estelle Vinette; harmony numbers by the Robbins sisters; tap eccentrics by Lorraine Robbins and Lorraine and Shirley Norden.

The closing feature was a one-act comedy, "Lucy's Old Man," given by the Perkins Dramatic club.

Balloon spiders have been found as high as two miles above the earth's surface.

NO CHANGES IN SHIPPING RATES

Iron Ore Freight Costs 52½c and 42c Per Ton from Escanaba

Cleveland, April 29 (AP)—Great Lakes vesselmen announced today coal and iron ore carrying rates for 1936 would be the same as those prevailing last year.

Large tonnages of coal to be moved in bulk freighters have been placed at these rates: 40 cents a ton net to the vessel to Duluth, 50 cents to Milwaukee and Chicago, and 45 cents to other Lake Michigan points.

The iron ore rates, on a net basis without unloading charge, will be 70 cents a ton from the head of the lakes to all lower lake ports, 63 cents from Marquette to lower lake ports, 52½ cents from Escanaba to Lake Erie ports, and 42 cents from Escanaba to South Chicago.

The Pittsburgh Coal company announced prices on vessel fuel would remain the same as those of 1935: $5 a ton over car dumpers and $5.50 over fuel docks and lighters. The company fuels over all car dumpers on Lake Erie and operates a lighter in Cleveland harbor.

Says Four Escanaba Boys Not Directly Involved In Theft

Tom Servant, Wilfred Dupont, Lloyd Arnold and Hendrick Engdahl, four Escanaba youths, were not directly involved in the theft of a box of cigars from the Charles Bailey store near Menominee last Sunday, according to an explanation received yesterday from Sheriff Edward Reindl of Menominee.

Robert Sharbeneau, 20, Escanaba, was bound over to circuit court on a charge of breaking and entering and is being held in jail in default of bail.

According to the stories told by the other four boys to Sheriff Reindl, they were not aware of what was happening when Sharbeneau went into the store and came out with a box of cigars.

It appears that Dupont later returned the cigars to the store, and when the sheriff's officers came to arrest them they told their captors that CCC boys had committed the theft and had escaped. They claimed that Sharbeneau told them to tell this story, which resulted in four futile trips by the offices to CCC camps in the vicinity. Because of giving this false information, they were sentenced to serve 30 days in jail. The Arnold boy is being held for arraignment before Probate Judge Kenneth O. Doyle.

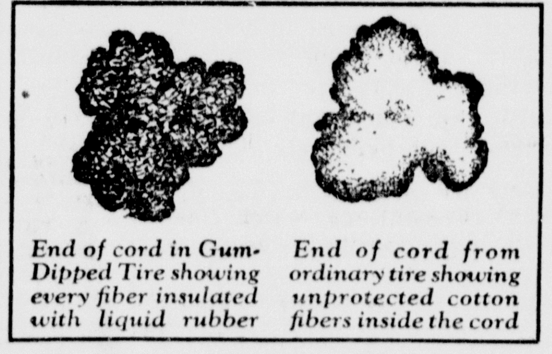
RACING drivers will not take chances on any tire except a Firestone Gum-Dipped Tire in the grueling Indianapolis 500-Mile Race, where its greater blowout protection has been repeatedly demonstrated.

Ab Jenkins, the famous driver, used Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires on his 3000-mile run over the Salt Beds of Utah, which he covered in 23½ hours—a record of 127 miles per hour. He has driven more than a million miles on Firestone Tires, in every state in the union, on all kinds of roads, in all kinds of traffic, without tire failure or accident of any kind. What a tribute to safe, dependable, economical tire equipment.

When you drive at today's higher speeds, your life and the lives of others are largely dependent upon the degree of safety built into the tires of your car. Take no chances—equip your car with new Firestone High Speed Tires today and be sure of the safest driving equipment money can buy.

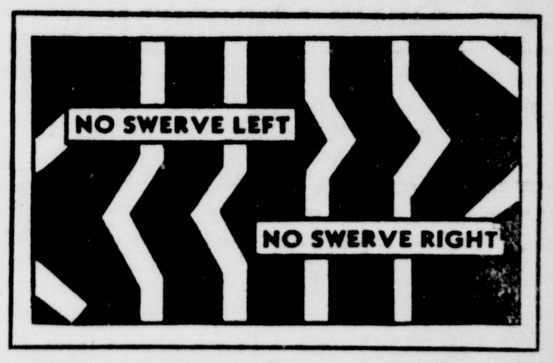


End of cord in Gum-Dipped Tire showing every fiber insulated with liquid rubber

End of cord from ordinary tire showing unprotected cotton fibers inside the cord

The body of the New Firestone High Speed Tire is made from selected long-staple cotton dipped in liquid rubber, absorbing eight pounds of rubber in every hundred pounds of cotton. This patented Gum-Dipping process insulates every fiber in every cotton cord, preventing internal friction which creates the heat so destructive to tire life, and giving to the tire added strength.

This heavy, broad, traction and non-skid tread is held to the cord body of the tire with Two Extra Layers of Gum-Dipped Cords, a patented construction, making the cord body and tread an inseparable unit.



A leading university in 2350 tire tests has found that the new, scientifically designed Firestone High Speed tread stops a car up to 25% quicker. Its super-traction and non-skid efficiency have also been proved in the famous Pike's Peak Race where for eight consecutive years it has been used on the winning cars.

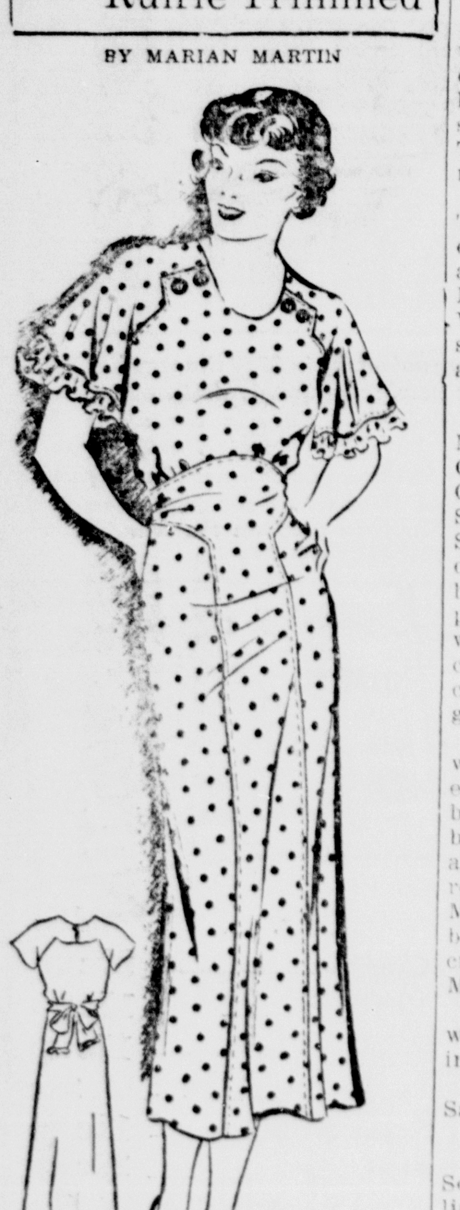
Dotted Swiss Morning Frock Ruffle Trimmed

BY MARIAN MARTIN



PATTERN 9834

You'll present a cheery appearance at the breakfast table in this crisp morning frock which is so easy to "stitch up" yourself. Be feminine in ruffles and when you pour the coffee, see if your frock isn't noted by Friend Husband. There are so many gay cotton prints on the market right now, that you can have a whole wardrobe of clothes from this one pattern! Gingham is nice, so are checks. The printed percales are attractive and wear very well. If you would like a very dainty frock which might be worn afternoons too, we suggest doted swiss (with a colored dot), batiste or lawn and contrasting plain organdy ruffling. And what could be more effective than the polka-dot cotton illustrated? Complete Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9834 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3⅛ yards 36 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

Send for our MARIAN MARTIN SUMMER PATTERN BOOK—just out! See what's latest for women of every age, in every fascinating summer role—the stay-at-home, the vacationer, the bride, the deb apartying, tiny tots romping in the sun! Special slenderizing fashions, too; and news of the latest fabrics and accessories. Order this book now! PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND A PATTERN TOGETHER. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Send your order to The Daily Press Pattern Department, 232 W. 18th St., New York, N. Y.

It is estimated that automobile accidents in the United States cause an annual loss of two and a half billion dollars.

Many Interests Color Life of Blind Genius

Alec Templeton's blindness does not interfere with his enjoyment of life in the slightest. The brilliant young pianist who is to be heard during the coming season as one in the series of the National League of Community Concerts, sponsored by the Escanaba high school Music Department, finds any number of things to be not only happy but excited about.

His radio brings him constant satisfaction. The devotion with which he listens to Bing Crosby and Paul Whiteman is obvious to those who have heard him imitate their styles. The tremendous enthusiasm he has for classical music manifests itself in even more remarkable ways. By assiduous listening he has become familiar with nearly every piece in the classic repertoire to such an extent that he can perform it from beginning to end. His sensitive ears keep him up to the minute on current affairs, ideas and slang.

One of his favorite diversions is the movies to which his father takes him regularly. The dialogue and inflections of the actors' voices enable him to follow the plot without any difficulty. He also loves gay places, automobile drives, conversation, and poetry.

But next to playing the piano, Mr. Templeton likes best to meet people and to talk to them, not about himself, but about themselves or music. His unfailing sense of humor makes him an excellent conversationalist and the best of companions. In spite of all the superlatives that have been heaped upon his head, he remains so genuinely interested in everyone and everything about him that his handicap is completely forgotten in the joy of good-natured, happy living.

The membership drive for the 1936-37 season, which is now in progress, is meeting with enthusiastic cooperation, and it is believed that the patronage of the concert season will be larger than ever before.

CHAPTER VII

There was a delegation from the Chamber of Commerce, all the members of the Chaminade Society, and some 20 other people on the station platform when Linda said, "I think I'd say 'yes'," but that did not deter Pete Gardiner from crushing Linda Bourne in his tweed-clad arms. Nor from kissing her on her eyes and not on her mouth. Nor from hailing an ancient, battered taxi with an air of opulence never seen before at the Newtown station.

But, once in the taxi, they found nothing to say to each other. It was too late now to say anything, Linda thought, and wondered if this had all been unexpected. Had she really thought Peter had asked her this second time in a spirit of fun? And, remembering his face and her answer, she know that she had believed him and answered the way she had intended. Later she would have time to think more clearly. But now perhaps it was just as well. What else had she? No love, no family and no clear goal in the future.

She stole a sidelong look at Pete, and liked what she saw. She liked his long legs, the easy carriage of his broad shoulders, the lean look in his thin face. She liked the way he knit his brow when he was thinking, and now she liked the way his whole face seemed picked out by a light. A light that she had made possible. She was unaccountably glad that she had made him happy. She knew what it was to be let down. She would never let Pete down.

She was a little afraid to have him speak. If he got lover-like or abject, she wouldn't be able to stand it.

• • •

During that pause he looked at her sternly. "You have a dirty face," he said. "And I refuse to give a girl with a dirty face these nice, clean, white gardenias."

Good for Pete. He wouldn't ever disappoint her, she thought.

"I'll wash it the minute I get home and then I'll pin on the gardenias and you may take me to the Villa Rosa for a huge dinner," she answered.

"Okay lady. This is your day. But later . . . er . . . suppose we stop at my house and break the news to mother?"

"Not tonight . . . let's . . . let's just keep it for ourselves for a little while." Linda had a curious reluctance to tell Mrs. Gardiner. She didn't believe it yet herself and she must have time to accustom herself to the idea. She knew that she had qualms and, for all her determination to forget the past, she could not be rushed into the future. Mrs. Pete Gardiner. Linda Gardiner. The name sounded very strange to her and she shrank from its strangeness.

Linda wouldn't let Pete tell anyone, and, when he pressed her to name a wedding day, she put him off. They could hardly marry on his salary, she pointed out. She begged for a longer engagement, and talked vaguely about the next spring. Like all girls, she wanted to prepare for her wedding. She wanted to sell the house. She wanted all manner of things that she thought up on the spur of the moment.

Linda was right, Pete thought, when he sat down to face the problems that his marriage would involve. He couldn't bring Linda home to the little house. He couldn't ask her to take his mother into their home either. Yet he could not support two households. And he couldn't expect Linda to be happy with as little as he had to offer her. She had had a life quite different from his own.

• • •

Gone were the lazy nights for Pete. The clack of his typewriter beat a steady tattoo long into the night after he had left Linda. There was no more money than his salary to be made in Newtown, so it must be made elsewhere. The vague plans for a play became typed and re-typed pages, and they grew in proportion to those midnight hours of work.

Of this Linda knew nothing, but Linda's nights were not those of dreamless sleep when Pete left her. Her arms akimbo on the low sill of her bedroom window, she stared pensively over the snow-covered hills many of those winter nights and wondered about the tomorrows, trying to reason right and wrong. She loved Pete, but she did not love him as he loved her or as she had loved Dix. When the first strangeness of his caresses had gone away, she found she liked the strength of his arms and, if her lips were not responsive to his, they were not cold.

"Next spring," she said, putting off the day when she would no longer be able to decide. Yet there was never a moment that she did not intend to marry him.

Christmas, the first real Christmas Linda had ever known, came, and she helped to trim the tree that filled the little Gardiner living room. She basted the turkey, sang Christmas carols, went to church with Mrs. Gardiner, and heard not a word that was spoken.

"You shouldn't have given me such an expensive gift," she said to Pete when she opened the little white box and saw the gold bracelet with its tiny charms.

"I'll let you in on a secret," Pete answered, looking very proud of himself. "I expect to be rich."

"I'd like you just as well if you weren't," she said sincerely.

"I shall buy you ermine pillows for your feet to walk upon and stars to hang in your hair," he said, touching her dark hair and telling her no more.

• • •

The play was finished. Two days before Christmas Pete had put it in an envolope and sent it to New York. To Holbein, the greatest producer of them all. And in his desk drawer was Linda's scenario. He was glad now that he hadn't told her he was going to send it to Hollywood. Her disappointment would have been bitter had she known it was returned. Now it didn't matter; his triumph would be hers. He would make up for that loss by the sale of his own play.

That it would be rejected he did not dream. Pete was no fool, but he knew he had a good play. He knew that Broadway was looking for sophisticated vehicles for the few stars remaining in the east. His was a sophisticated play and he had hopes.

Pete took to whistling at the time the mail came in. He didn't want anyone to know how anxiously he waited for it. And when three weeks had passed, five weeks and then the sixth, he was lulled to a false security. The play was being "considered." Else why would Holbein's office keep it so long?

They had considered it, the letter said, when it finally arrived from Holbein's office. They thought, "It might be good picture material," and suggested that he "try Hollywood."

Pete tore up the letter and dropped the play in the bottom drawer of his desk. It was February and the spring was nearly here. Pete wanted to marry Linda in the spring, but now the possibility seemed more remote than ever. Pete chewed the bitten pipe far into the night, and went to work on another play with far less hope than he had had before.

And then Honey Harmon, glittering, glamorous, blondely brilliant star of the cinema, came to one of the "big" picture houses of Newtown.

With two maids, a manager and a press agent, a chauffeur, three dogs and six trunks, she swept into town wearing a sable coat, a Paris frock the like of which Newtown had never seen, and a jeweler's windowful of diamond bracelets, to make a "personal appearance." And, more importantly, to sweep the quiet surface of the lives of Linda Bourne and Pete Gardiner into whirling eddies.

HERMANSVILLE

Hermansville, Mich.—Miss Janet Fish and Harvey Grismer were married Saturday morning at 11 o'clock in the rectory of St. Mary's church. Rev. Fr. Hollinger performed the ceremony.

The attendants were Miss June Fish, sister of the bride, and Bud Rice, brother of the groom.

The bride wore a white crepe ankle length dress, white picture hat and other white accessories. June Fish wore a yellow ankle length dress, yellow picture hat with yellow accessories.

The wedding dinner was served in the home of the bride's parents at six o'clock to thirty-one guests.

The couple will live in Iron Mountain where the groom has a home in readiness.

Several pre-nuptial parties were given the bride.

BUILDING CODE IS INTRODUCED

City Will Construct Own Paving, Sewer Projects

A building code was introduced for adoption by City Manager E. H. Waterhouse during the regular commission meeting Tuesday evening.

The purpose of the proposed ordinance is to increase fire prevention and to assist the city assessor in placing proper valuation on new construction.

No bids having been received on three projects, paving of Delta avenue, 11th to 14th; Dakota avenue, 13th to 15th, and construction of sewers in Block 7, Buckeye addition, the commission authorized construction under the direction of the city manager.

Application of the United Workers for a tavern license was tabled in order that the commission have time to secure a ruling from the Liquor Control commission on the status of the applicant. Recently the state commission advised the city commission that the Labor hall was in a restricted area, the Salvation Army hall nearby being considered a religious institution, and as a result application for license for the Labor hall should be rejected.

Recently, however, the United Workers received a letter from the state commission advising that application for license be made. A request that the state commission clarify the situation is being made and definite action will be taken by the commssion later. Temporary permission to operate Saturday night was granted.

Plans for landscaping the aquatic park were approved by the body. The work is to be done by various lodges and organizations of the city as an Arbor Day program.

Funeral Services For Aged Resident Will Be Held Today

Funeral services for Mrs. Emma Johanson, aged resident of Gladstone who passed away Tuesday afternoon, will be held Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the Mission Covenant church, the Revs. N. W. Nelson and C. V. S. Engstrom officiating.

Serving as pallbearers will be P. J. Lindblad, S. G. Nelson, Louis Skogquist, Carl Nyberg, Fred Quarnstrom and Axel Berglund. Interment will be made in Fernwood cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Camp arrived in Gladstone Tuesday to make their home. They will take up residence at 705 Montana avenue. Mr. Camp is a retired railroader.

BRIEFLY TOLD

Melvin Krull, nephew of Mrs. H. Druding, Superior avenue, passed away Thursday at Appleton, Wis., according to word received here. Krull recently submitted to an operation for relief from appendicitis.

* * *

Overheated Stove—A call from the Smith home on North Seventh street Tuesday to extinguish a blaze caused by an overheated stove was received by the local fire department.

* * *

Prayer Service — Prayer and praise service is to be held at the Gospel Tabernacle this evening, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

* * *

Townsend Club—The Townsend club of Gladstone is scheduled to meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the council chambers at the city hall.

* * *

Commercial Students—C. E. Fisher, head of the commercial department at Gladstone high school, reports that he often receives calls from persons asking that he recommend someone for stenographic posts and requests that students or graduates of the commercial department who have kept up on their shorthand register with him.

THEATRES

Paul Muni has scored again. In the production, "The Story of Louis Pasteur," which was shown for the first time locally at the Rialto Theatre yesterday, he has given the world not only one of the finest characterizations ever depicted on the screen but has made a real contribution to the art of motion pictures.

"To Beat The Band" is the second feature.

Mrs. J. P. Carlson returned to her home in Kipling Tuesday night after a week's visit with friends in Crystal Falls and Marquette.

CITY BUDGET IS ADOPTED

Total Appropriation $71,320; Tax Levy Less Than Last Year

A budget calling for appropriation of $71,320 to defray anticipated expenditures for the fiscal year 1936-37 was approved by the city commission Tuesday evening following public hearing.

There were no persons appearing to be heard and the budget was adopted as submitted previously by City Manager E. H. Waterhouse.

The appropriation is nearly $20,000 more than the total for 1935-36 due mainly to a large increase in the street fund necessitated by purchase of materials for paving and increases in the interest and sinking funds.

Of the amount appropriated $29,177 is to be raised by taxation. This is $170 more than the tax levy a year ago. Assuming a tax valuation of $2,000,000 as a base this levy would result in a tax rate of $14.72 per $1,000 of valuation or 27 cents per $1,000 more than last year.

A group of salaries were acted upon.

An ordinance to allow the city to appropriate and levy for the purpose of defraying various expenditures was introduced folliwing approval of the budget.

The budget:

Fund	Appropriation	Levy
Interest	$ 5,410	$ 850
Sinking	9,200	1,000
Health	265	265
Fire	7,060	4,274
Police	5,832	5,680
Welfare	4,730	4,730
Cemetery	1,934	700
Street	18,830	930
Sewer	3,080	3,080
Park	1,403	1,403
General	8,545	4,845
Contingent	5,031	1,420
Totals	$71,320	$29,177

CLUB ENJOYS TRAVEL TALK

Charles Gessner Pleases Women With Tale of The Near East

In a most easy and informal manner Charles Gessner of Escanaba presented Modern Palestine and Egypt as a vacation land with a lure and charm for the vacationist that is perhaps unique in its vivid contrast between the modern and the ancient at the meeting of the Manistique Woman's club on Tuesday afternoon in the Elks temple.

With amusing incidents of the trip and entrancing descriptions of the country, cities and the inhabitants, Mr. Gessner carried his hearers along through the delightful experiences of his vacation travels. From Italy, the journey was to Yafa in Modern Palestine which has a population of some nine hundred thousand Arabs and 375,000 Jews.

From Yafa through Jerusalem to the Sea of Galilee, always one sees the modern in close proximity to the old. In one city, a modern school system where Hebrew, Arabic and English are taught is beside modern buildings, while in another part of the city are Bedoin camps.

The country is the borderline where two civilizations are bridging a gap of thousands of years. Automobiles pass camel trains and in the distance an Arab priest can be heard calling the faithful to prayer.

In the beautiful city of Jerusalem modern luxurious hotels are close by the old Jerusalem as it was 3000 years ago with its bazaars and markets down to the wailing wall with its beautiful Moslem mosque. Days could be spent visiting the old churches and synagogues.

With him the audience visited the pyramids and the valley of the Kings and Queens and read the history of Egypt within their tombs. They were carried over miles of desert to find it suddenly burst into bloom where it had been irrigated by man power and with oxen.

Cairo was revealed as an Egyption counterpart of the Paris of today in its modern section with the old city a facinatingly interesting place. The whole talk was replete with evidence of a sympathetic understanding of the other fellow, be he Arab, Hebrew, Sudanese or English.

Following Mr. Gessner's talk, Mrs. Charles Underwood and Mrs. J. J. Herbert were elected as the official delegates of the local club to the U. P. Convention of Women's clubs to be held here on May 19 and 20.

Herbert K. Peterson sang two lovely Stephen Foster compositions, "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming" and "Jeanie With the Light Brown Hair." Accompaniments were by Mrs. A. F. Hall.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. R. B. Waddell, chairman, and Mesdames Weber, Wilde, Thivirge, Rousseau, Shay and Otteson.

To Present Fine Program At Lincoln School On Friday

A program of two one-act plays and several variety numbers are to be given in the Lincoln school gymnasium on Friday evening at eight o'clock and promises fine entertainment. The entertainment is sponsored by the St. Catherine's Guild of St. Alban's church.

The Guild has secured Willard Norby, a comedian and imitator of unusual ability from Escanaba to give several numbers between the plays. Miss Norma Lou Burns, a colored tap dancer, who has appeared on several programs in Escanaba, will give two tap routines. These numbers alone give promise of making the entertainment worthwhile.

Members of the Guild will present one play, The Unconscious Kleptomaniac, and members of the Girls Friendly, an organization of younger girls, will present the other play, A Mistaken Thief. Both of these plays are under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Taylor, a member of the teaching staff of the Manistique schools.

In the play, The Unconscious Kleptomantiac, Miss Powers (Dorothy Carpenter) a psychologist, has unusual power over Miss Elfreda Waring (Susan Palmer) and through this power many entanglements result.

The events following a misinterpreted telephone call provide the many humorous situations that characterize the fast moving playlet, The Mistaken Thief. The characters in the play are members of the Girls' Friendly society.

In addition to the evening show a matinee for school children will be given at the Lincoln school gymnasium at 4:15 o'clock on Friday.

Golden Stars Will Initiate Candidates On Friday Evening

A large class of candidates is to be initiated in the Golden Star Lodge No. 201 S. F. of A. when the lodge meets at its new quarters in the K. of P. hall on Friday evening of this week. Members of the Kronan Lodge of Gladstone have been invited to attend.

Initiatory work will be put on by district officers who include Hilding Granberg, Gladstone; Arthur W. Moberg, Escanaba; Manny Logan, Escanaba, and Jens T. Jensen of Escanaba.

Following the meeting and initiation there will be a luncheon and dance.

COMEDIAN HERE

Willard Norby, above, of Escanaba, a comedian and imitator of rare ability will be one of the entertainers between the plays on the St. Catherine's Guild and Girls' Friendly society program at the Lincoln school gymnasium on Friday evening.

Badladelis And Barnes Roll New High In Doubles

Peter Babladelis and Emory Barnes rolled into first place in the doubles bowling tournament at the Brault alleys on Tuesday with a new high of 1332 pins for the series. Weber and Tyrrell are in second place with 1264 and the team of L. Stoken and F. Gorsche are third place holders with 1262.

Singles leaders are E. Barnes, 676; L. Stoken, 666, and C. Tyrrell, 643.

Today is the final day of the tournament and over two hundred entries have been made and the games rolled. With the furious pin toppling that has characterized the final days of the tourney, there may still be changes in the leaders.

Doubles leaders scores:

P. Babladelis	196	224	276
E. Barnes	213	214	[illegible]
H. Weber	287	173	236
C. Tyrrell	180	187	201
L. Stoken	259	170	185
F. Gorsche	237	174	237

COUNTY BUDGET IS SOME HIGHER

Board Approves Report Calling for Total of $62,000

Schoolcraft county's tentative budget for 1937, approved on Tuesday afternoon by the budget committee of the board of supervisors and subsequently adopted by the full board, totals $62,000, which is $750 more than the budget total for 1936. Members of the budget committee are: P. H. Beauvais, Manistique city assessor and manager; Ray Prine of Manistique and D. F. Morrison, Germfask township.

Following a thorough discussion of the relief situation in the county with W. G. Stephens, administrator, and consideration of the county's ability to pay, the board voted to appropriate $400 in addition to previous appropriations to supplement state funds for relief. The $400 is to be used between the present time and June 30 provided the special welfare committee of the board deems such expediture necessary. Members of the board's special welfare committee are: Frank M. Gierke, Sr., William Sellman and Charles H. Howard.

The board received the report of the state highway commissioner on township roads taken over by the county. The airport committee was informed that the WPA project for improvement of the county airport has been approved and that work may be commenced as soon as conditions here are favorable.

At the afternoon session on Wednesday a committee composed of representatives of the service clubs of the city: Woman's club, Business and Professional Women, Rotary and Lions clubs appeared before the board and asked for an appropriation for the Better Homes and Gardens contest being conducted during the summer. The board made a $100 appropriation for the contest provided that at least sixty entries in the contest are received.

BY FRANK MAC MILLEN
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, April 29 (AP)—Jittery stock market traders scuttled for the sidelines today, in the process kicking the props out from under many of the pivotal shares for losses of 1 to 4 points, with a few wider breaks.

The decline was conspicuous for the "blue chip" character of its leadership. American Telephone led the retreat to finish off 6 points after being down more than 7 for a time. An appreciable number of active issues scored new lows for 1936.

Liquidation was stimulated following the passage by the house of representatives of the new federal corporate tax bill. In early dealings the market had held its own fairly well and made spasmodic attempts to get ahead.

The foreign situation continued to play on raw speculative nerves, made jumpy by the series of wide declines which began more than a week ago. Some selling from abroad was reported.

Average Declines

The continental politico-financial situation likewise gave the market one of its queerest quirks as a handful of gold issues were actively bought at rising prices as the rest of the list slumped.

Brokerage firms with a considerable foreign clientele reported that Amsterdam and other European sources were buying the gold stocks as a hedge against possible devaluation of the franc and collapse of the gold currency bloc.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 1.5 points at 57.3. The utilities composite of 15 issues, off 1.4 at 43.4, was at the bottom for 1936.

The selling in American Telephone was persistent, but not sufficient to bring it into the list of the 20 most active issues of the day. Included in that group, with losses of 1 to 4 or so, however, were such prominent shares as U. S. Steel at 55¾, off 4½; General Motors, off nearly 3 at 60 3-8; Chrysler about as much at 93 5-8, Anaconda down more than 2 at 32 1-8 and Bethlehem off 4½ at 46.

Offerings of the major telephone issue were said to have been relatively heavy from Amsterdam. Domestic liquidation apparently was based partly on fears that the present federal inquiry into the affairs of the world's largest corporation might bring a campaign for lower rates with a consequent reduction of earnings.

The exceptional softness of "big steel" was a bit discouraging to the analysts, in view of the company's first quarter showing which was the best for any similar period since 1931.

Industrial news continued to stress the progress of economic recovery, although, in many instances, financial circles thought stocks may have outrun business gains.

On the cheerful side was the estimate of "Iron Age" that current steel production is at 69 percent of capacity, an upturn of 1 point over the preceding week. Electric power consumption was also found to be expanding more than normally.

Heavy Losses In Most Curb Shares

New York, April 29 (AP)—Active selling except of gold mining shares brought heavy losses to all sections of the curb market today.

Following the general trend of the big board, a large assortment of specialties, oils, utilities and industrials dipped 1 to 2 points, and in some cases much more.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass dropped 9 points to a new 1936 low at 109. Sherwin-Williams lost 2½ at 127 and declines of 1 to around 2 were shown in Aluminum Co., American Gas, Bunker Hill & Sullivan, Electric Bond & Share, Newmont Mining and Gulf Oil.

Lake Shore Mines, a leading Canadian gold stock, blazed the way for other shares in this group with a 1½ point gain at 54 3-8.

Transfers of 402,000 shares compared with 478,000 shares the day before.

New York, April 29 (AP)—Light offerings again depressed all sections of the bond market today with the exception of high grade investment issues which maintained a steady undertone.

Total sales for the day amounted to only $8,839,000, par value, compared with $10,050,000 the day before, and of this amount governments accounted for but $220,000, the smallest for a full 5-hour session in several months.

A bad upset in the stock market, passage by the house of the new tax bill, intensification of the uncertainties abroad by rumors that foreign investors were taking steps to hedge against further inflation in Europe, were among factors at work to bring out scattered offerings.

Two groups used in the Associated Press averages touched new 1936 lows. The industrials at 102.0 were off .1 of a point and the foreign group at 68.9 were off .6 of a point, largely as a result of severe declines in Polish issues. Other groups in the averages were unchanged to .2 of a point lower.

Soft spots included Anaconda Copper 5s, at 103, Baltimore & Ohio 4½s at 67¼, Bethlehem Steel 4½s at 102 5-8, Chesapeake Corp. 5s at 125¼, Illinois Central 4¾s at 69½, International Telephone 4½s at 90 1-8 and Warner Bros. 6s at 90¼.

Government bonds moved in a price range in keeping with the meager turnover. Prices in the longer term treasury group ranged from a decline of 1-32 to an advance of 2-32. Nearby maturities were but a standoff.

Lawrence Says Norris' Scheme Might Improve Efficiency of Congress

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1936, Escanaba Daily Press)

Washington, April 28—Every now and then something happens in national affairs to vindicate the judgment of Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska in his concept of representative government as it should be.

Quite unwittingly, the house of representatives has furnished in the last few days the best argument and demonstration of why it might be better for the national legislature to be composed of one house instead of two—a reform which Mr. Norris succeeded in establishing in the legislature of his home state of Nebraska.

The circumstances are these: A tax bill of transcendent importance to the economic and fiscal system of the nation is under consideration. From time to time during the debates, less than a hundred representatives out of the 435 elected have been present on the floor. Also, every member feels that the tax bill is going to be rewritten by the senate. The measure is to be voted on and passed by the house of representatives this week, notwithstanding the fact that a substantial majority knows full well it is never to become law in that present form.

Get $10,000 Annually

The American people pay $10,000 a year to each member of the house of representatives, or a total of $4,350,000. They pay $10,000 a year to each of the 96 members of the senate, or a total of only $960,000. Obviously, if the members of the house are going to "pass the buck" to the senate and are not going to take the responsibility of writing legislation, there is a big economy possible in having a single house combining the best features of both and with a much smaller membership than now.

The pending tax bill is probably the worst piece of tax legislation that has been written in 20 years. Big business gets certain advantages out of it. Small businesses get many penalties out of it and considerable damage. Monopoly is encouraged because weak competitors are hurt by the unequal tax provisions. Businesses of large size with a vested interest in certain fields of industry will be secure against newcomers because of the new tax bill.

Clumsily Written Bill

But apart from these uneconomic features, the bill is so clumsily written that it will take a tax expert or a lawyer specializing in tax law to help most every business man make out his return. The layman who reads the proposed tax bill and can figure out how to compute the tax is the exception rather than the rule.

Far from being a simplified tax system for business institutions, it is complicated. As for the alleged modifications to help businesses that have debts, as well as contracts to pay off debts instead of dividends, the measure takes care of all debts incurred prior to March 3, 1936, but is silent on future debt contracts.

This can only mean that companies that wish to borrow money in the future will have to do so under hardships that never have existed before. A company cannot say it will borrow a certain sum and pay off all of it before giving its stockholders dividends. It will have to say to the lender that it can pay only a certain amount and the rest must go to stockholders unless a prohibitive tax is paid.

Expect Senate Changes

In other words, the safety of future borrowing processes, for small businesses in particular, will be materially changed by the new tax law if the senate retains what the house proposes.

There are many provisions of the law which will cost a good deal to administer. But the cost to the taxpayer to conform to the law will be an increasing item of expense.

The supposition is that the senate will change all this and make it workable. But the question might well be asked why the house of representatives doesn't improve on the hodge-podge offered it by the treasury department and give the senate an idea of what the public reaction to specific parts of the bill is when changes have been made. The house is elected every two years, while only one-third of the senate comes up for election every two years. The senate is not as directly responsive ,therefore, to the 1936 election as is the house and the house now can transfer to the senate whatever blame accrues. If there were only one house elected every two years, every member would feel, it is contended, a greater sense of responsibility for the writing of legislation.

Kalamazoo. (AP)—John Fitzpatrick, 50 year old laborer, died in a hospital Tuesday of injuries received when he was struck by an automobile on Highway US-12 east of here. His death brought to 12 those in the Kalamazoo area this year from traffic accidents.

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., claims to have the largest fresh water yacht basin in the world.

DAY'S MARKETS IN BRIEF

New York, April 29 (AP)—

Stocks: Weak; American Telephone and U. S. Steel off sharply.

Bonds: Lower; secondary rails easiest feature.

Foreign Exchanges: Mixed; Swiss francs heavy.

Cotton: Lower; favorable weekly weather.

Sugar: Quiet; Cuban support.

Coffee: Large visible supply figures.

Chicago:

Wheat: Lower; flour demand curtailed.

Corn: Higher; rural offerings meager.

Cattle: 25 lower.

Hogs: Steady to weak; top $10.55.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, April 29—Price acrobatics of the Chicago May wheat delivery became the focus of grain trade attention today, and culminated in almost 2 cents a bushel downturn.

Miller's reports of sharp curtailment of flour buying did a good deal to bring about an abrupt fade-away in demand for May wheat. The falling-off in purchases of flour was more or less associated with more favorable conditions for the new domestic winter wheat crop.

Wheat futures closed nervous at some recovery from the day's bottom level, but 5-8 to 1¼ cents under yesterday's finish, May 97 5-8 to 97 3-4, July 86½ to 86 5-8, corn ½ to 3-4 advance, May 63 to 63 1-8, oats ¼ to ½ down, and provisions varying from 35 cents setback to a rise of 2 cents.

For at least the time being, with more auspicious weather prevailing southwest and west, drought fears appeared to have vanished as a factor in the flour industry, spring wheat mills in the northwest being reported as booking orders for only 26 percent of their capacity as compared with 150 percent a week ago. Before Chicago May wheat prices tumbled, however, May had risen to an unusual premium of 12 cents over July, which stands for wheat yet to be harvested.

Bears contended that holders of May wheat who had been stubbornly hoping for an advance to well above $1.00 a bushel in the next few weeks would find that price been a speculative will-of-the-wisp. A special incentive to sellers was found in news of good rains at various places—for example, 3 inches around Paradise, Kansas.

Corn and oats displayed relative firmness owing to heavy reduction of Chicago stocks of corn.

Provisions sagged somewhat because of weakness of cottonseed oil.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—May 96 to 96 1-8, 99 to 99 1-8; July 85 3-8 to 85½, 87 5-8; September 83 3-8 to 83½, 85½ to 85 5-8. Corn—May 62 5-8, 63 3-4; July 60 3-4, 61 3-4; September 59 3-8 bids.

Czechoslovakian cities and towns own their own forests.

Greenberg Breaks Wrist, Out of Lineup A Month

It's Tough Break, Says Mickey, But He Believes Tigers Will Win Anyway

Washington, April 29. (AP)—Mickey Cochrane, who exuded cheerfulness all over his hotel lobby this morning because the Tigers were "moving along fast and smoothly," tonight refused to be completely glum despite the loss of his star first baseman.

"A tough break for us," was the answer of "Iron Mike", the Detroit pilot, when asked about the fractured wrist Hank Greenberg received in today's game. He conceded Greenberg might be out a month or more, but felt that the Tigers still were near the top of the league ladder for good. The way he put it this morning was:

"We're hitting the ball and we're getting good pitching. You couldn't want much else. But figure this one out. We've been playing two weeks and we're already six weeks ahead of last year."

Mickey Has Cold

A year ago the Tigers didn't pop their heads out of the second division until June 1. It was July 1 before they moved into second place and nearly August 1 when they became leaders.

When Mickey was talking, before game time, Detroit was in third place, less than a full game away from first. The Tigers were off to a slow start but just about the time Manager Cochrane began to worry the jungle boys got going and won five straight. Now they're ahead of their June 1 pace last year.

Cochrane has been suffering from a cold but, nevertheless, has been taking his turn behind the bat.

It looks like a third pennant to Cochrane, for one reason because he thinks the club is stronger than in 1935 and for another because of the fast advance Detroit has made in the opening fortnight.

"Last year Auker didn't win a ball game until the middle of June. And Rowe never was much of an early pitcher before," The Bengal boss said. "Bridges looked good his last time out.

"Al Simmons has been running around like a young colt. He has renewed confidence and is going to be a lot of value to us. Owen apparently is going to have another one of good 'even' years. His best seasons were in '32 and '34. He's been hitting well and timely. And Goose Goslin has been pounding the ball hard. Gehringer is leading the league with a .400 plus average.

"I haven't seen Boston or New York yet. I know they're good. And so is this Cleveland bunch. But our Tigers are pretty tough customers," Mickey said. "Remember though, it's a long row ahead, and anything can happen."

GOMEZ CHECKS INDIANS, 6 TO 1

Left Hander Gives Up Only Three Hits at New York

New York, April 29. (AP)—Pitching his best game of the season here this afternoon, Lefty Gomez set the Cleveland Indians down with three hits and the New York Yankees won, 6-1. The defeat dropped the Indians from first to fourth place.

Lefty struck out five and walked one in winning his third game of the season. The Indians scored their only run in the sixth when Frankie Pytlak doubled to left and scored on Roy Hughes' single to center.

The Yankees took the lead in the third, scoring a run on Myril Hoag's double and Bob Rolfe's single. They secured this lead in the sixth when they scored four more on Ben Chapman's walk, Gehrig's single, Dickey's double, a fielder's choice and Gomez' double. Lefty's blow, which Earl Averill lost in the sun, scored two runs.

This barrage marked the end of Thornton Lee's toil on the mound for the Indians and brought Willis Hudlin out of the dugout. He was touched for the last Yankee run immediately when Rolfe bunted safely, went to third on Gehrig's single and scored on an infield out.

GRIDDERS MEET THIS AFTERNOON

Spring Football Practice Ends With Intra-Squad Game

Spring football practice at Escanaba high school will be terminated this afternoon with the annual battle between the Hasbeens and the Will-bees at the athletic field. The game is scheduled for 3:30 o'clock and the public is invited to attend, there being no admission charge.

Coach Nordberg will have an opportunity to get a line on his new material this afternoon and he is expected to use the line-up he has been working on all spring. He reports the boys have looked fine in practices and is looking for them to give the veterans a hard tussle. The graduates, 15 of whom were members of the regular team last fall, have been working out in the field across from the high school and are anxious to show the "young squirts" that they are not yet ready for the grave.

The game will take on big time atmosphere with the presence of regular officials, Ken Gunderman and Ted Baldwin, who will handle the whistles.

BIG SIX STANDINGS

(By The Associated Press)

Bill Terry still tops the Big Six today but the fact is probably very little consolation to him, for he sat on the bench in St. Louis yesterday and watched the St. Louis Cardinals beat his New York Giants, 2-1 in 17 innings. Joe Medwick of the Cards also survived that weird ball game and is in second place with a mark of .438 and another National Leaguer, Ernie Lombardi, who was idle yesterday, is in third place. TIGERS BEATEN BY WASHINGTON

Bengals Get Only Pair of Safeties; Drop 7-3 Battle

Washington, April 29 (AP)—Al Simmons banged a home run in the ninth inning here today to spoil Pete Appleton's hopes of becoming the first pitcher to hurl a one-hit game this season, but the 31-year-old "rookie" nevertheless turned in his third victory for Washington, 7 to 3.

Except for a double by Gehringer in the fourth, the world's champions were unable to touch Appleton's offerings for eight innings until Simmons, first up in the ninth, drove one into the center field bleachers.

The Tigers' other two runs came in the fourth when Gehringer doubled, Simmons and Goslin walked, and Travis muffed Rogell's grounder. Gehringer and Simmons scored.

Greenberg Injured

The Senators got 2 runs in the first on Myer's triple, Travis' double and Stone's single and picked up another in the sixth when Appleton's single scored Powell.

Washington scored four runs in the eighth on five hits.

Hank Greenberg, the Tigers' heavy hitting first baseman, was hurt in the sixth inning as he reached to the left for a wide throw and got in the way of Powell, who was racing toward first base. Powell barged into him, badly injuring the first baseman's left wrist. It was swelling fast as he left the game. It was the same wrist he hurt last year in the world series.

A few hours later came the bad news that Hank had suffered a split fracture which would keep him out of service for a month.

As a further bit of bad luck, Manager Mike Cochrane was forced out of the game in the eighth inning by a charley horse, which had caused him severe pain all afternoon. He suffered that injury running out a double yesterday.

With both Hank and Manager Mike out of the line-up, the Senators ran wild in their half of the eighth. Powell started the trouble with a single, and took third on Kuhel's single. He was trapped between third and the plate on Bolton's grounder, but Kuhel reached third on the play. Then Manager Bucky Harris of the Senators gave the signal for a squeeze play, and when Appleton laid down a bunt to Bridges, Kuhel scored and Appleton reached first. When Miles singled, scoring Bolton and Appleton, Bridges retired. Lewis touched Chief Elon Hogsett for a single, and Miles scored from third when Myer forced Lewis. Travis hit to Rogell to end the inning.

Tigers Rejected Him

The defeat at the hands of Appleton was particularly galling to the Tigers. Appleton, whose real name is Pete Jablonowski, gained fame in collegiate circles as a pitcher at the University of Michigan, but the Tiger scouting staff advised against signing him up because his fast ball was considered not of big league calibre.

Two years ago, Jablonowski changed his name to Appleton while playing with Baltimore. When he bobbed up at Montreal under that name last year, the late Frank J. Navin sent Scout Wish Egan to look him over. Egan reported that his car-fare had been wasted when he discovered Appleton's identity, and the Montreal Royals sent him to Washington.

Appleton's freak delivery—he winds up with the ball in his gloved hand, dropping it into his pitching hand as the last act—had the Tigers completely baffled today. The delivery, which Rogers Hornsby, of the St. Louis Browns, protested in vain during the spring, prevents the batter from getting his eye on the ball until it is speeding toward him.

The perfect hitting records of Gehringer and Simmons, who have hit in every game thus far, remained intact when they got the only Tiger hits.

SPILLING the DOPE

BY JOHNNY INKSLINGER

What constitutes an amateur athlete? The state high school athletic association says an amateur is one who does not receive anything more valuable than one dollar for his knowledge or talent in any sport, and incidentally lists further requirements and restritions for those who want the simon pure label. The Amateur Athletic Union, at least as it applies to amateur boxing, figuratively lists an amateur as anyone who desires to chip in to the AAU for the privilege of fighting on an amateur card. Whether he receives money or not for his labors doesn't enter into the question of his amateur status, provided the money he does receive is paid to him in the form of a "merchandise certificate."

—o—

It would be interesting to watch the results if the definitions of amateurism as interpreted by the state high school athletic association and by the AAU were put to a common test. Many high school boys competing in amateur fights likewise compete in high school athletic contests—football, basketball, track, etc. Strictly according to the rules of amateurism as laid down by the high school association, those boys would be unable to compete in high school contests if it could be shown that they received more than one dollar over and above their expenses for participating in a boxing match, even if that boxing match was listed as amateur.

—o—

That many amateur fighters, at least the more popular ones, are in the racket for the shekels they can get is not merely supposition. It is an established fact and promoters of amateur shows in the peninsula are quick to admit it. Many so called amateur fighters clear as much as twenty dollars in one scrap—and if the prospects of getting more look good, they're ready to hold out for a higher fee. It's a queer setup, to say the least. It is said, Joe Anderson, for instance, averaged more money per fight when he was in the amateur ranks in the peninsula than he does now fighting as a professional in the lower peninsula. It isn't that the boys aren't entitled to some money for taking the bumps and bruises, but the racket should be stripped of its sham. If it's to be called amateur, it should be simon pure in principle as well. If they want to make pin money from their efforts, all well and good but let's call them professionals then.

—o—

These amateur fighters do some queer things sometimes. Frank Duket of Marinette who was to be one of the headliners on the all star show here recently injured his nose a couple days before he was scheduled to fight at Escanaba. He thought little of it, apparently, until the day before the Escanaba card. Then he became worried about his injury, went to a doctor and learned his nose was broken. He notified the local promoted of his injury, explaining he would be unable to fight. Now that part wasn't so bad. He was only guilty of indiscretion when he failed to check up on his injury earlier. However, Duket was scheduled to fight in Iron Mountain several days after the Escanaba show. Instead of notifying the Iron Mountain promoter that it was unlikely he would be able to be on the card: Duket apparently thought nothing of it until the day of the fight. Then he used the very lame excuse that his nose injury did not heal as rapidly as expected—and caused one of the featured bouts to be stricken off the show.

BILL LEE WINS HURLERS' DUEL

Cubs Nip Brooklyn, 1-0; Galan Scores Lone Run in Fourth

Chicago, April 29 (AP)—In one of the season's finest pitching battles, the Chicago Cubs behind Bill Lee defeated Van Lingo Mungo and the Brooklyn Dodgers here this afternoon, 1-0.

Both pitchers allowed only four hits and Mungo, playing in his usual tough luck, was denied at least a tie when his single with two out in the fifth hit Ranberres in the leg and retired the side when Jimmy Bucher was on his way home from third with the tying run.

The Cubs scored their only run in the fourth when Augie Galan beat out an infield roller, his first hit in 15 consecutive times at bat, went to third on Billy Herman's smash to left, and scored when Hartnett singled to right.

INJURY CAUSED BY COLLISION

Owen May Be Shifted to First or York May Be Recalled

Washington, April 29 (AP)—Hank Greenberg, Detroit's first baseman and the American league's most valuable player last year, today suffered a split fracture of his left wrist in a baseline collision with Jake Powell, Washington outfielder.

"It's a tough break for us," said Manager Mickey Cochrane of the Tigers. "Hank likely will be out for at least a month and probably more."

The left wrist was the same he injured early in the last world series.

The injury came in the sixth inning of today's game, which Washington won 7 to 3, when the big first baseman, reaching to the left for a wide throw, collided with Powell, who was racing to the base.

As Powell sped past, his left arm caught Greenberg's and wrenched it back. Hank fell to the ground and after a hurried examination on the field was rushed to a hospital.

An X-ray picture showed the fracture of the left wrist. After his arm was placed in a cast, Greenberg returned to the players' hotel tonight.

Cochrane said he was undecided how to rearrange his line-up. He said Owen, who replaced Greenberg at first during the world series and again today, might shift from third to first or that he might recall Rudy York, a youngster who made a fine showing during the spring training before Greenberg, one of the season's most stubborn hold-outs, finally reported to camp.

Greenberg, one of the league's best and heaviest hitters, was off to a good start this year despite the weeks he lost from spring training.

Later, it became known that Cochrane was burning up the telegraph wires trying to make a deal with some other American league club for a first baseman. He declined to say who he had in mind, but indicated he had some hope of putting a deal through.

He and many of the other Tiger players were of the opinion that, although York showed unusual promise during the training season, it would be better to plug the gap at first with a player of proved big league calibre, if one can be obtained.

Greenberg was gloomy as he returned to the hotel.

"I don't know when I can get back," he said. "The doctors don't seem to know either. But as soon as they give the word I'll be ready to go back to work."

He probably will leave for Detroit when the Tigers depart for Philadelphia tomorrow night. He may go to his home in New York later.

Cards Win 17-Inning Game From Giants, 2-1

St. Louis, April 29 (AP)—In one of the most perfectly pitched games in the recent history of the major leagues, Roy Parmalee of the St. Louis Cardinals stood up for 17 innings against Carl Hubbell and his old teammates, the New York Giants, here today and finally won when the Giants' infield collapsed and let in the winning run. The score was 2-1.

Parmelee, traded away by the Giants because of his wildness, struck out nine men, walked four, and gave up only six hits to the 50 men who faced him. Hubbell fanned six, gave 11 hits, and also walked four.

Virgil Davis opened the 17th with a double down the first base line, and Lyn King was sent in to run for him. Hubbell purposely passed Charley Gelbert to get to Leo Durocher who hit a deep drive to Hank Leiber for the first out. Next up was Parmelee who hit a double play ball to Dick Bartell but the Giants' shortstop fumbled it and the bases were full. Terry Moore was the Cards' next batter. He grounded to Travis Jackson at third who fielded the ball perfectly but threw wide to the plate and King scored when Mancuso was pulled off the plate to catch the throw.

Martin Thrown Out

The Giants scored first in the first of the 12th when Burgess Whitehead drew a walk at the start of the inning advanced to second on Mel Ott's socrifice, and scored on Hank Leiber's drive to center.

But the Cards came through in their half of the inning, and had they been less eager would have ended the game there. With one out, Joe Medwick singled through short and went to third on Johnny Mize's double to short right. Stuart Martin, a rookie, went into run for Mize, and when Charley Gelbert, the next man up, singled, Medwick scored the tying run and Martin, waved around third by the coach, was out at the plate on a perfect throw from Mel Ott to Gus Mancuso. Leo Durocher then hit a long fly to Joe Moore, which would have scored Martin had he been held on the bag.

JOHN MENARD GRID CAPTAIN

Merle Williams Honorary Pilot of St. Joseph 1935 Team

Johnny Menard, a junior, was elected captain of the 1936 St. Joseph high school football team at a banquet held in honor of St. Joseph football and basketball lettermen at the school ball yesterday. Merle Williams was elected honorary captain of the 1935 football team.

Coach George Carr presented football letters to 17 men at an assembly program at the St. Joseph high school yesterday afternoon and Coach Al Kholman presented basketball letters to seven players.

The football lettermen are: John LaChapelle, Russell Mallette, Normand Seymour, Captain Elect Johnny Menard; Edward Gleich, William Boddy, Bernard Ammel, Captain Merle Williams, Francis LaChapelle, John Vande Wiele, Edward McDermott, Mark Valind, James Ashland, Joseph Decker, Clayton Groleau, John Gray, Hal Smith. Of these players, Menard, Gleich, Boddy, F. LaChapelle, Valind, Ashland, Decker, will return next season.

Basketball letters were won by John Vande Weile, Clayton Groleau, Matt Lewis, William Boddy, William McCarthy, Maurice Krummel and John Gray. Boddy, McCarthy and Krummel will be available next year.

After the assembly program, the lettermen, the coaching staff, school executives, and several invited guests met at the school hall for the banquet in honor of the lettermen. The selections of the honorary captain, for the 1935 season and a captain elect for 1936 were made at the banbanquet.

FEDERAL FARM AID PROPOSED

Delta County Committees Are Ready to Start Work on Reports

Final steps were taken Tuesday in organizing Delta county for the new federal soil conservation program, and local committeemen are starting their task of visiting every farm, listing 1935 crops and land uses for the entire farm acreage of the county.

There are 32 local committeemen in Delta county, three in each community, and to these three men will fall the duty of calling on every farmer in their respective districts and collecting data for the work program which must be made out for every farm.

The chairmen of each local committee make up the county directors of the soil conservation program organization, and these directors held a meeting at the courthouse in Escanaba Tuesday to elect officers. Frank Brander of Rock was chosen president; Carl Maehre of Rapid River, vice president, and John K. Olson of Stonington was named as the third member of the executive committee. John Gasman of Bark River was elected as alternate to serve in case of absences. In addition to the executive committee there is a secretary-treasurer, Edmund Beauchamp, of Gladstone, Route 1. Voluminous reports required in the program will pass through the hands of the secretary-treasurer.

At the meeting Tuesday, additional details of the new federal farm aid program were explained by D. L. Clanahan of the state college extension department, and E. A. Wenner, county agricultural agent, who has been holding a series of meeting in various communities to explain the complicated setup of the soil conservation program.

Committeemen are paid $4.50 a day for the time they are working on farm reports, and they are required to contact every farmer in their respective communities. After being checked over by the county committee, the farm work program reports go to the state organization for additional checking, and then to Washington for a final checkup and acreage allotment.

Navy Now Taking New Enlistments

Young men of good character between the ages of 18 and 25 years are now being accepted for enlistment in the U. S. Navy.

Due to the recent increase in naval personnel, the opportunity for enlistment is better now than it has been for quite some time. Those interested may write or apply in person to the Navy Recruiting Station, 309 Federal building, Green Bay, Wis. The office hours are from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m., daily, and from 9 a. m. until noon on Saturdays. All applicants must appear in person for their examination and it is suggested that this be done during the morning hours if practicable in order to allow sufficient time to complete papers on those accepted the same day. Boys attending high school may take their examination now and have their enlistment held in abeyance until after graduation, if they so desire. The normal period of waiting before enlistment is from four to six weeks after acceptance. The term of enlistment is four years.

The naval service has much to offer those young men who are ambitious and is well worth investigating as a career. In addition to travel and education, the navy maintains fifty-five trade schools for its members. The average pay is $60 per month and 50 per cent of the men in the navy are specialists with pay at $60 to $157 per month. After twenty years service one may retire with a substantial pension for life.

AT THE COLISEUM

The Coliseum roller rink will be open this evening from 7 to 10 o'clock for the regular skating program.

Fats and starch are chemical substances belonging to the same group of hydrocarbons and go well together; hence the popularity of fried potatoes.

Funeral Services For Sullivan Will Be Held On Friday

Thomas G. Sullivan who passed away here at his home on East Chocolay street Tuesday afternoon, was born on July 21, 1852, in Huron county, Ontario, Canada, and came to the United States with his family from Canada in 1871. He was of Irish parentage and first began his lumbering career in San[illegible]ac, Mich., and later in Alpena. At the age of 28 he was united in marriage to Miss Susan Higgins in Alpena. In 1882 he came to Munising and lumbered in Burt township. Mr. Sullivan was second president of the village of Munising, following the presidency of Timothy Ne[illegible]er with whom he was associated in business. Mr. Sullivan became mayor of Munising in 1918 and served until 1920 and after being out of office until 1923 was again elected in 1923 and served continuously until 1930 when he was succeeded by C. G. Kemp.

Mr. Sullivan is survived by three sons, Herbert, George and Emmet, two daughters, Marcella of Munising and Mrs. Daly Pelton of [illegible]oston; three sisters, Mrs. John B[illegible]ir of Tacoma, Wash., and Mrs. John Burke of Minden City, Mich., and one brother, William.

Funeral services will be conducted at Sacred Heart church Friday morning at 8 o'clock, Msgr. Henry A. Buchholtz of Marquette officiating, assisted by Rev. Fr. Ovid La Mothe of Munising.

The body will remain at the [illegible]owerman Funeral Home until the hour of services.

BRIDGE CLUB MEETS

The Tuesday Evening club met at the home of Mrs. Ted Lapine this week. Mrs. Lapine and Mrs. A. Frechette were hostesses. The evening was spent playing auction bridge. Prizes were awarded to Miss Delphine Carlson, Mrs. C. H. Boyak and Mrs. John Madigan. A delicious luncheon was served.

ANNUAL CLASS PLAY

The class of 1937 will present its annual class play tomorrow evening in the Mather high school auditorium, beginning at 8:15 o'clock. The play is under the direction of Miss Esther Kemp, junior class adviser, and was written by [illegible] Hammerstein and Mil[illegible]ton Herbert Gopper, and concerns the fortunes and outcome of the Blake family fortune. The play centers around the entire family and the change in their fortunes with the coming of a stranger, Gypsy Jim, who manages to make them all think they are confronted with a supernatural personage. The cast includes Mr. Blake, the father, an unsuccessful lawyer; the mother, who thinks she is sick; Lucy, their daughter, on the point of an elopement; Tom, her brother, who has his mind fixed on suicide, and a number of others. It finally turns out that Gypsy Jim is really a millionaire who has played an agreeable trick on the Blake family.

The cast follows:

Harry Blake—Fred Olson.
Mary Blake—Evelyn Burge.
Craig—Dempsey Courters.
Lucy Blake—Lillian Korpela.
Tom Blake—Jack Gatiss.
Gypsy Jim—William Berube.
Worthing—Leo Gariepy.
Dan—Leslie Korpela.
Estelle—Florence Raymond.
Miss Kent—Lois Chase.
Grace—Marie Montcalm.
Maid—Lenore Budtke.

The play is entitled "Gypsy Jim." Rehearsals and the competent direction of Miss Esther Kemp, who has succeeded in putting on a number of successful class plays in the past few years, point to a successful production.

Special acts have been arranged between acts.

MUNISING BRIEFS

Michigan Divided Against Itself By Mackinac Straits

"The vast state of Michigan is in a sense divided against itself by the Straits of Mackinac," said John R. Merrifield of Sault Ste. Marie at a bridge meeting in the Barlum hotel, Detroit, April 23. Mr. Merrifield is president of the Straits Bridge association, which is actively campaigning for the building of a suspension bridge from St. Ignace to Mackinaw City.

"The Straits have cleared Michigan into two great peninsulas, either of which is larger than any of our eastern commonwealths," continued Mr. Merrifield. "They form a barrier not only to the transportation of human beings, but in a large and definite way to the intra-state trade of Michigan.

"The geographical situation which confronts the state has resulted in the diversion of an immense amount of Upper Peninsula business to the west and south, and entirely outside of the rest of the state. In the days when all freight traffic went by rail or water, we traded largely with Detroit and other lower Michigan points. Today the business goes to other states, and logically so, since speedy deliveries count for more than ever.

"A bridge across the Straits of Mackinac will bring much of this Upper Peninsula trade back home, where it belongs. The bridge will afford rapid transit facilities to motor vehicles and railways alike, greatly stimulating the flow of traffic to the northern and southern sections of the state.

"We give the major industries of lower Michigan credit for having vision enough to see this. The proposition to make Michigan one state and not just two peninsulas is economically sound, and downstate business should be 100 per cent with us."

Gladstone Flyer Receives License

Washington—A total of 575 airplane pilots in Michigan hold active department of commerce licenses, according to an announcement by the bureau of air commerce. Among the 575 persons holding pilot's licenses were 240 transport, 29 limited commercial, 223 private, 43 amateur pilot.

One of the recent licensed pilots to be named is John P. Fletcher of Gladstone. Among the Michigan boys who are now student pilots are: Emil C. Batchelor Jack A. Evans and Arnold C. Heimerdinger all of Ypsilanti; Daniel A. Brief of Northville and Lawrence W. Scutts of Clio.

500-Watt Radio Station Planned In Traverse City

Washington—A formal application for a 500 watt radio broadcasting station for Traverse City has been filed with the Federal Communications Commission. Congressman Albert J. Engel of Lake City, and C. A. Mc Lin and George T. Warren both of Traverse City were in conference with the acting secretary of the Communications Commission and engineers of the department this morning, and were promised an examining survey would be made.

Tourist associations as well as local authorities are backing the proposal for the radio station. They claim that all of Northern Michigan is in an area of poor radio reception from the established Michigan stations and that this section which brings such a large tourist trade, needs a powerful station of its own.

Ford Ship Clears Escanaba Docks; Back On Saturday

The Henry Ford I, second ore boat of the season to enter the Escanaba harbor, arrived at the C. & N. W. docks at 5:20 p. m. Wednesday and cleared for Detroit about an hour later with a cargo of iron ore. The Ford is due back again on Saturday for another cargo.

On Friday, May 1, the steamer Saturn is scheduled to load here, and the steamer Hemlock is booked for Sunday.

State Ferry Back On Spring Schedule

Lansing—Ferry service at the Straits of Mackinac was resumed Monday morning by the State Highway department after an interruption of a week caused by ice.

The Steamer Straits of Mackinac flagship of the state-owned ferry fleet, is now running on its regular spring schedule. The ferry leaves St. Ignace at 6:00 a. m. and Mackinac City at 7:15 a. m. daily. Trips are made at two and one-half (2½) hour intervals throughout the day with the last boat leaving St. Ignace at 6:30 p. m. and Mackinac City at 7:45 p. m.

Reports to State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner from Capt. E. H. Doner, superintendent of the ferries, indicate there will be no further interruption of the service, although there is still some ice in the Straits.

Commissioner Van Wagoner pointed out that the delay in scheduled operation this year does not create a precedent. Two years ago the ice in the Straits channel delayed ferry service until April 30.

Two boats will be placed in operation at the Straits May 1st, which is a fifteen day advance this year in the two-boat service. This schedule will continue until July 1st, when all three boats will be placed in operation.

During the summer season from July 1st through September 9th, the State Highway Department will also operate the railroad ferry, however, will also carry passenger cars at peak periods.

Baby Girl Called By Death Tuesday

Shirley Lou McDonough, one month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs Patrick McDonough, 201 North 11th street, passed away at 11:30 o'clock Tuesday night at St. Francis hospital. The baby had been ill from birth.

The body was taken to the Boyce Funeral Home to be prepared for burial and services were held in the chapel of the funeral home Wednesday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock, with burial in Lakeview cemetery.

Surviving are the parents and one brother, Roland, six years old.
